Her Planes Bomb Damascus

Israel Admits 'Going Is Hard'

By United Press International

Israeli planes attacked the Syrian army and air force headquarters half a mile from downtown Damascus today in the first such strike against a Middle East capital in the war which erupted Saturday. But Israel admitted hard going on the Suez Canal and Golan Heights fronts where Egypt and Syria claimed sweeping successes.

Israel also hit Syrian oil refineries and power plants, two Egyptian air fields and a Lebanese radar station, military communiques reported. The strike was the first against Lebanon, which has not entered the war. Beirut reported heavy damage and Damascus reported civilian casualties there and in Homs, 100 miles north of Damascus.

Israeli military officials who began issuing optimistic statements on Monday began backtracking today and said "the struggle facing us will not be an easy one." Observers in Beirut said the war was likely to be a protracted one, not a swift walkover as in the 1967 six-day war.

"It is clear that Israel has been waging and is waging some of the fiercest battles in its history," a correspondent of Israel's National Radio reported from the Suez front where the Israeli commander said the Egyptians were fighting fiercely to hang on.

Most reports of the fighting came from official spokesmen in Tel Aviv and in the various Arab capitals. So far Western newsmen have not been allowed to visit the actual battlefields for first-hand reporting.

Related stories and photo on page 3.

Egyptian military communiques said Egyptian forces driving from the Gulf of Suez advanced nine miles into the Israeli-occupied Sinai Peninsula today and fought a sea battle with Israeli warships off the northern coast. Both sides claimed victories in the naval battle.

A communique broadcast by Cairo radio said the Egyptian thrust in the Sinai, advancing all along the 102-mile front, destroyed "all" Israeli positions, sent Israeli forces in retreat and captured hundreds of prisoners, including an Israeli armored brigade commander.

A later military communique reported a fierce battle between Egyptian and Israeli vessels in the Mediterranean. It said the Egyptians sank nine Israeli launches and shot down five helicopters accompanying them, with three Egyptian vessels hit.

Israel reported its naval vessels sank three Egyptian missile boats in the Mediterranean off the Nile Delta and escaped after the attack. Israel also reported damaging Egyptian gunboats in the Gulf of Suez.

An Israeli military command-announcement said that while "strategic targets" were ordered after Syrian gunners targeted Israeli settlements in the occupied Golan Heights with long-range rockets, each capable of traveling 44 miles with 1,100-pound warheads.

Israel said the Lebanese radar station on a mountain peak was being used by the Syrian air force. The Lebanese Ministry of Defense reported heavy damage and said nine Lebanese soldiers were wounded.

Witnesses in Damascus said the Israeli strike destroyed at least 10 buildings but the Syrian command said Syrian planes drove off the six attacking Phantom jets and shot down four of them. Syria also reported three more Israeli planes downed in other strikes. So far Syria has claimed more than 100 Israeli planes destroyed.

Israel said the strikes at the temple celebrating Yom Kippur was a vicious, cowardly act. "It couldn't have come at a more unexpected time, Yom Kippur morning," Rabbi Eichhorn said he was conducting Yom Kippur services when he was informed of the Arab attack on Israel.

Some Jewish leaders are comparing the Arab attack on Israel to the "day of infamy" when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor initiating World War II. "The attack by Egyptian and concerned persons for the welfare of the State of Israel, its right to exist, its right to legitimately persevere as the only democratic country in that part of the world."

Rabbi Harry Z. Schectman, spiritual leader of Congregation Ahavath Israel, also announced that a special prayer service for Israel will be held at that temple on Wednesday at 7 p.m. at the start of the eight-day Succos holiday, also known as the Feast of the Tabernacles.

Local Jewry Rallies Tonight

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — The Kingston Jewish Council has called an "emergency meeting" for tonight at 8 p. m. at Temple Emanuel on Albany Avenue to rally support for the State of Israel, now under siege by attacking Arab nations.

Similar rallies in Poughkeepsie and Newburgh Monday night were attended by more than 2,000 persons who pledged and contributed in excess of a quarter million dollars in support of the beleaguered Jewish state.

"Financial contributions will be urged, messages of support to political officials will be encouraged, clothing, things like that," said Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn, spiritual leader of Temple Emanuel. "People will be urged to do their own thing in terms of helping."

Local Jewish leaders said that original plans had called for a meeting at the home of George Jacobson in Hurley but due to the "overwhelming response" that meeting was canceled and a community meeting will be held at Temple Emanuel.

Seymour Werbalowsky, United Jewish Appeal chairman, and Richard Kalish, prominent in community civic activities, will coordinate tonight's meeting in Kingston, which according to a spokesman has been organized to "bring the tragic consequences of the Arab-Israeli war to the attention of the community at-large and to advise concerned citizens as to how they can offer assistance in this time of international peril."

Local leaders are hopeful of matching Poughkeepsie's effort, although they allow that Dutchess County has a larger and "better organized" Jewish community.

More than 1,000 persons turned out at Temple Beth-el in Poughkeepsie last night, pledging and contributing more than $100,000 to the drive in a response that was described as "overwhelming" by Hamilton Scheer, director of the Dutchess County Jewish Welfare Fund.

In addition to the money raised, there were also "about 100 volunteers" who signed up to contribute blood and other volunteer groups involved in the collection, packing and shipping of medicine and drugs to Israel.

The mood of last night's rally in Poughkeepsie was described as "solemn," as opposed to expressions of shock and outrage at the Arab attack on Israel on the morning of Yom Kippur.

Saturday, the most holy of the Jewish High holidays.

"I was dismayed when I heard about it," Rabbi Eichhorn said. "It couldn't have come at a more unexpected time, Yom Kippur morning," Rabbi Eichhorn said he was conducting Yom Kippur services when he was informed of the Arab attack on Israel.

Kissinger, speaking Monday night to 3,500 persons at a foreign policy conference, stressed the importance of U.S.-Soviet detente, including the Middle East.

At the same meeting Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., recommended a Middle East settlement involving an adjustment of boundaries, internationalization of Jerusalem and a treaty by which the United States would pledge to defend Israel against any attack it could not repel.

Nixon Moves for Peace

WASHINGTON (UP) —

President Nixon today sought broad international support including the Soviet Union and China for U.S. diplomatic efforts to secure a Middle East cease-fire.

The White House said Nixon soon after the outbreak of fighting had initiated an exchange of messages with Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev through diplomatic channels, and that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, conferred during the weekend with Huang Chen, chief of Peking's liaison mission here.

The general lines of U.S. policy urging return of Israeli, Egyptian and Syrian forces to positions they held before the fighting began Saturday emerged Monday as a half-dozen senators, on a nearly empty Senate floor, adopted by voice vote a Middle East peace resolution purporting to speak for the entire Senate.

The resolution was introduced by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Republican Leader Hugh Scott. It took on significance beyond the handful of senators who pushed it through when Scott indicated to newsmen that the administration supported it. Scott said Kissinger told him he found "no fault" with the resolution.

The resolution expressed the "sense of the Senate" that the United States urge a cease-fire and "a return of the parties involved to lines and positions occupied by them prior to the outbreak of current hostilities."

Nixon canceled a trip to Carthage, Tenn., next Saturday to dedicate a dam. But he kept an appointment at the White House today with Ivory Coast President Felix Houphouet Boigny, who as head of a crises spiral into big power confrontations. Nixon initiated the exchange with Brezhnev Sunday while in Key Biscayne, Fla., the White House said, and received a reply that night.

Kissinger, speaking Monday night to 3,500 persons at a foreign policy conference, stressed the importance of U.S.-Soviet detente, including the Middle East.

A Longer War Than 1967 Seen

BEIRUT (UPI) — With the fourth Arab-Israeli war now in its fourth day, all indications are that it is not going to be a swift walkover for either side. It certainly will not be over in six days such as the war in June, 1967.

Whether either side cracks or can crush the other even in six weeks remains to be seen.

But out of the smoke clouds of conflicting claims and counterclaims monitored in this

Middle East capital, these fairly well established facts appear to be emerging:

—Regardless of who actually fired the first shot, the Israelis were caught off balance, only partially mobilized and not yet ready to launch an overwhelming all-out offensive with all their forces as they did in June, 1967.

—The Egyptians did succeed in crossing the Suez Canal at several points and made quite considerable initial advances through the thin Israeli covering forces in the Sinai desert.

Analysis

—The Syrians were able to score similar initial successes with their Soviet-equipped tank forces on the Golan Heights. However, they have not yet claimed to have captured Kuneitra, the only sizeable town in the area, which lies a bare five miles west of the 1967 cease-fire line.

At this point the situation becomes less clear.

Monday night, while Egypt and Syria still were talking of "fresh advances" in Sinai and on the Golan Heights, Israeli chief of staff Gen. David Elazar was telling a news conference that Israel had gone over to the counteroffensive and was driving back the Egyptians and Syrians everywhere.

He even hinted the Israelis might not stop at the Suez Canal and on the northern front might occupy Damascus. They stopped short of either such action in 1967.

But this morning the chief Israeli military commentator, Irish-born Gen. Haim Herzog, who once served as a British guards officer, spoke in much more cautious terms.

He warned against overconfidence and said the war might drag on longer than initially expected.

But what could be more significant, if true, were Egyptian claims today to have smashed through Israeli positions and to be advancing all along the canal line.

This might mean a breakout from the bridgeheads in which the Israelis said the Egyptians were surrounded.

Nuclear Data on Cities

By WADE BURKHART

According to research done by the Hudson Valley Citizens Watch on Nuclear Safety (HVCWS), the Cities of Kingston and Poughkeepsie are within what the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) would designate a "low population zone" if the AEC licensed the proposed nuclear power plant in the Town of Lloyd.

The HVCWS findings were embodied in a recent letter to D. Dixy Lee Ray, chairman of the AEC. Cited by the HVCWS as its sources were the AEC publications Standard Format and Content of Safety Analysis Reports for Nuclear Power Plants and Reactor Site Criteria, Part 100.

According to HVCWS research, the AEC defines three zones around a reactor the size of that proposed for Lloyd. The LLOYD first zone, an exclusion area of .77 miles radius, is one in which the licensee — in the Lloyd case, should it be built, the WNS), the Cities of Kingston and Poughkeepsie are within what the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) would designate a "low population zone" if the AEC licensed the proposed nuclear power plant in the Town of Lloyd.

The next zone, in which Kingston and Poughkeepsie fall, is a low population zone. The AEC defines this as "the area immediately surrounding the reactor, containing no more than 10,000 residents, the total number and density of which are such that there is a reasonable probability that appropriate protective measures could be taken in the event of a serious accident."

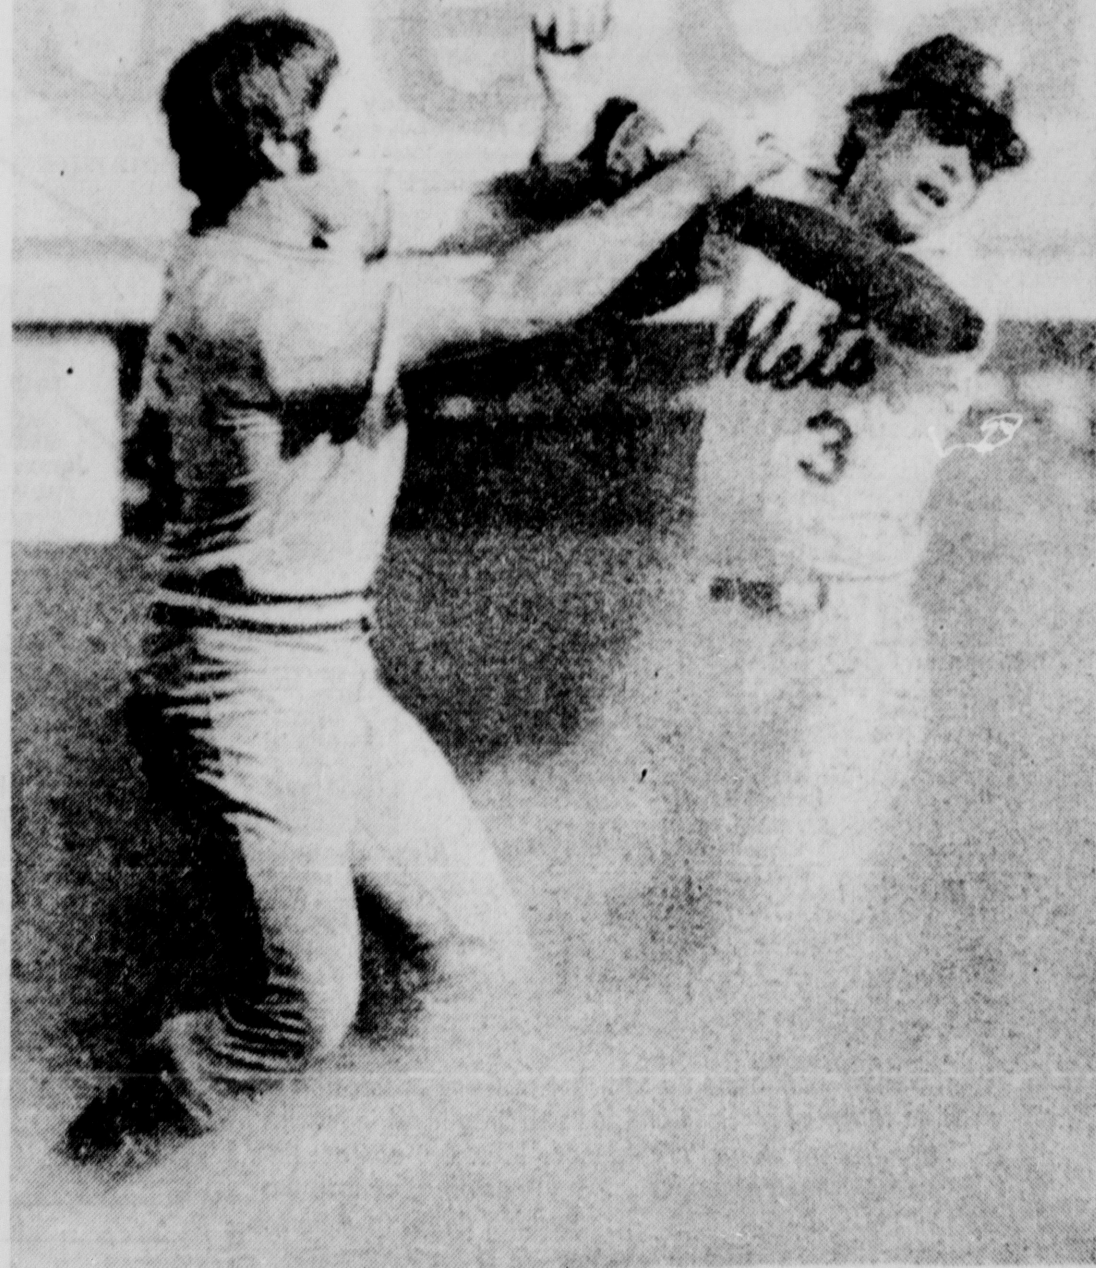

The third AEC zone is a population center distance of 15.3 miles radius, which is supposed to be the "distance from the reactor to the nearest boundary of a densely populated area containing more than 25,000 residents."

The HVCWS notes that not only are Kingston, with 28,000 residents according to the 1970 Census, and Poughkeepsie, with 37,000, too large for the third zone, but are located in the second, or "low population zone." Kingston is about 10-11 miles from the proposed reactor, according to the HVCWS, and Poughkeepsie is six miles.

The HVCWS found a total of 109,233 people living within the "low population zone," using 1970 figures and not taking into account transients and a 40-year population projection, as the AEC requires. The HVCWS questions that protective measures could be taken for a population this size in the event of a "serious accident," and asked how immediate warning and medical care could be provided; how evacuation could be accomplished and where housing, food, medical and sanitary facilities would be located; how long people could be kept there; and what could be done about the contaminated environment.

"One wonders in view of these AEC regulations, why the N.Y. State Atomic and Space Development Authority is considering the Lloyd site for even one minute," states the HVCWS.

Merrill Charges 'Neglectful Government'

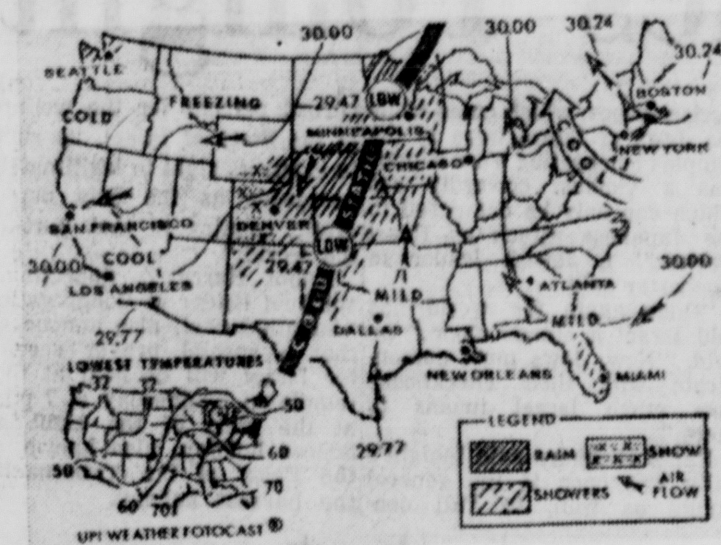

KINGSTON Mayor's annual message to the Common Council on Jan. 1, 1970. Merrill quoted Koenig in the mayor's message that year: "... proper maintenance and repair of our sewers and careful inspection is a matter of utmost importance." The Republican candidate said today, "I must ask Mr. Koenig what happened to the camera purchased by the Board of Public Works to use in the inspection of sewer lines. Did they use the camera to inspect the sewer lines at the Broadway and Pine Grove Avenue intersection before they turned the site into a costly, maledorous mess?" Merrill then added, "It would be my intention to create storm drainage districts which will benefit entire areas and not just place a burden on a few property owners." Discussing the city's purchasing practices, Merrill also quoted from a portion of Koenig's Jan. 1, 1970 message: "... I believe that a study should be made to determine if there is a need for a city purchasing officer for the city of Kingston." Commented Merrill, "... I would immediately arrange for a position to be created within the administration to consolidate purchasing and to eliminate waste spending. We cannot afford more purchasing debacles such as the one involving the furniture and supplies for the new City Hall and involving a non-avoidable contract signed by Mr. Koenig and the Materials and Supplies Committee (of the Common Council)." Merrill also criticized Koenig for failing to appoint a Youth Commission, as the mayor indicated in 1970 that he would do. "The establishment of such a commission would be a giant step towards involving our young people in the life of the community," said Merrill. Finally, Merrill scored the Koenig administration and its record for providing recreational facilities for the people of Kingston. Said Merrill today, "I reiterate that we should set up park districts with specific reference to renovating and revitalizing parks already in existence. He specifically cited Upper Hasbrouck Park, which "requires cleaning and restoration of drainage." Merrill concluded, "His (the mayor's) good intentions in these (four) areas and many others have suffered from neglect. Neglectful government is not responsible government, and I believe the citizens of Kingston know the difference."

Harrison Teachers End Walkout

By United Press International Striking teachers in Harrison, Monday night overwhelmingly voted to end their four-week-old walkout and return to work today. In a 3 1/2 hour meeting at Harrison Association of Teachers headquarters, the rank and file voted "approximately 160-40" to return to work, according to a union spokesman. He said the tentative contract agreement includes a 5 per cent raise for the first year, a 4 per cent raise for the second, and a cost-of-living raise for the third. In addition, the teachers' jobs are guaranteed for the three years. The teachers also agreed to hold 10 make-up days for classes missed during the strike, the spokesman said, and the school board granted the union $2,000 to purchase 3,500 extra teacher hours to use for make-up purposes through June 1974. In another Westchester County dispute, the Yorktown Congress of Teachers (YCT) met Monday night with the Yorktown school board after 22 striking teachers spent most of last Thursday in jail in defiance of a court order to return to work. The 22, sentenced to 30-day prison terms and fines of $250 each, were released Friday, pending the outcome of an appeal scheduled for Oct. 10. Benjamin Snider, chief negotiator for the YCT, said the Harrison settlement "could put some pressure on the (Yorktown) board, if it is a good settlement for the teachers ... but we won't capitulate, no matter what the outcome."

Security Council Miles Apart on Ending War

TRADE MIDEAST CHARGES — Israel and the Arabs accused each other in the General Assembly in New York City of starting the renewed warfare in the Middle East. Speaking to the General Assembly are Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohammed Hassan el-Zayyat (L), Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban (C) and Syrian Deputy Foreign Minister Mohammad Zakaria Ismail (R). (UPI TELEPHOTO)

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Members of the U.N. Security Council were miles apart today in their search for a way to end the Middle East war.

Diplomatic sources said another council meeting was likely late today but it was not clear what form a compromise cease-fire resolution might take.

The United States appeared alone Monday with its proposal that the council call for a return to military positions held before the outbreak of fighting on Saturday.

China called the idea "preposterous" and, with the Soviet Union, demanded Israeli withdrawal from all Arab lands occupied in the 1967 war.

Some sources said war news was so contradictory that some council members were waiting for a clearer picture to emerge before taking position on a cease-fire resolution.

U.S. Ambassador John A. Scali told the council the "least damaging way" to end the fighting was to restore the cease-fire lines that Egypt and Syria crossed Saturday.

Soviet Ambassador Jacob A. Malik said Israel must be forced to abandon the parts of Egypt, Jordan and Syria its has occupied with the "support of imperialist circles" since 1967. He blamed Israel and its allies for the outbreak of fighting.

Chinese Ambassador Huang

Hua demanded that Israel withdraw immediately from the occupied lands. He said the Chinese people admire Egypt and Syria for their "bold and just action and express firm support to them."

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban called on the Arabs to "embark on the adventure of negotiating peace."

But Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohammed H. El-Zayyat denounced the idea of giving up territory Egypt and Syria claim to have won back since Saturday.

"Occupied Egypt is our home," he declared.

Zayyat accused Israel of starting the war by making a naval attack on an Egyptian oil pipeline west of the Suez Canal early Saturday. He said Egyptian troops retaliated and then moved across the canal to "plant the Egyptian flag on Egyptian soil."

Eban fired back that Zayyat's report of an Israeli attack was an "odious falsehood."

A Kissinger Warning to Kremlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has warned that U.S. Soviet relations could be imperiled if the Russians do not act responsibly in the Middle East.

"We shall resist aggressive foreign policies," Kissinger said in a speech Monday night. "Detente cannot survive irresponsibility in any area, including the Middle East."

In a day filled with U.S. commentary on the war, the Senate passed a resolution urging Middle East ceasefire and a return of hostile forces to positions held before the outbreak of current fighting.

Sen. J.W. Fulbright, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, echoed the Senate's sentiment on a cease-fire, but said Israel should be required to pull back from most of the territories it has occupied since 1967.

In his talk, Kissinger said the Nixon administration "has never had any illusions about the Soviet system" and for that reason the United States has maintained a strong military balance and a flexible defense.

"Coexistence to us continues to have a very precise meaning," he said. "We will oppose the attempt by any country to achieve a position of predominance, either globally or regionally.

"We will resist any attempt to exploit a policy of detente to weaken our alliances. We will react if relaxation of tensions is used as a cover to exacerbate conflicts in international trouble spots."

Kissinger pointedly added: "The Soviet Union cannot disregard these principles in any area of the world without imperiling its entire relationship with the United States."

Kissinger made his remarks to a forum sponsored by the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions.

Miniskirted Israeli Women on the Front Lines

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli women dressed in tight knaki miniskirts are on the front lines in the Middle East war, driving jeeps and treating the wounded.

Thousands of men were pulled from their homes to combat units on five minutes' notice, and many of their wives were called to reserve duty for auxiliary jobs.

"I was glad they called," said Tova, a nurse from Tel Aviv. "I was nervous until I got my orders. I felt as though the war was passing me by and I couldn't do anything. I wanted to help."

Israeli women are conscripted at age 18 and serve 20 months in uniform.

Exceptions are made for married women. Mothers stay at home, but marriage alone is no bar to reserve mobilization during crises.

Women reservists were sent to the Golan Heights and near the Suez Canal, operating switchboards, monitoring radar, doing office work and helping in field hospitals.

No women are put into combat, although they are trained in the use of small arms during their regular military service.

In Israel's first war—the fight for independence in 1948—women soldiers carried guns and fought alongside men in the front lines, Premier David Ben-Gurion then ruled that women should no longer fight.

However, reliable sources reported that some of Israel's casualties in the latest fighting were women.

"When the shells are falling 21 miles from the border, it doesn't really matter if you are on the front line or not," Tova said.

"There is always a chance of getting killed, but it's better than sitting home. All my friends are in the army. It's like a family."

The nurse is working 12 hours a day in an orthopedic ward at a hospital in Haifa, far from the lines. Wounded soldiers are brought there by helicopter from the Golan Heights.

In regular service, many of the women work in paramilitary settlements along the borders, sometimes helping on guard duty. Some become intelligence officers.

In normal times, the army earned a reputation as marriage broker.

King Faisal Pivotal in World Politics

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

What enigmatic, 69-year-old King Faisal of Saudi Arabia does in the current Middle East crisis can have an immense impact on world politics. Even the Soviet-American detente may be at stake.

Another humiliation of the Arabs' combined military strength could spell big trouble for the United States should Arab frustration lead to the use of oil for retaliation.

Should Faisal decide to turn off his spigot as a punishment for American support of Israel, the energy crisis would be knocking at the door because the United States has come to rely heavily on assurance of continued flow of Arab oil.

When the new fighting erupted, Iraq announced nationalization of the interests of two U.S. companies in Iraqi oil. Though not significant in the world oil picture, it could apply the prod to other Arab producers, notably Saudi Arabia.

Faisal, a pillar of Moslem conservatism, has shown concern with the future of the Saudi dynasty ever since he pushed his brother Saud aside and assumed direction of the country. One way to assuage revolutionary elements in a nation caught by the clash of modern and feudal might be for the ruler to become an Arab hero.

AP Analysis

Faisal probably is convinced that the United States needs him much more than he needs the United States, since non-Arab producers couldn't possibly make up for a Saudi oil cut-off.

The Saudis already had aroused Western concern by indicating they would not necessarily produce all the West might need, that they—like others in the area—didn't want to earn more money than they could safely handle and that they were thinking of conserving riches in the ground, sure of constantly increasing value.

The situation is weaving a tangled world political web. Moscow's leaders have been concerned about keeping alive the spirit of detente with the United States in view of potential benefits to the Soviet economy. But, as Leonid I. Brezhnev said a few weeks ago, the Middle East situation is full of "dangers for the cause of world peace."

One danger is that the Kremlin can't make up its mind whether peace is worth the price of lessened influence. It has shown little inclination to prevent new conflict, and its propaganda to the Arab world has dwelt on the efficacy of oil as a weapon.

Moscow seems to want to link the Arab cause inextricably to an over-all "anti-imperialist struggle" so that any Arab hopes of success must reflect credit on those advocating close ties with the Soviet Union.

But clearly if the United States were plunged into major crisis as a result of the new fighting, the situation could get out of hand. And if it did, the whole structure of the detente could collapse in a new super-power confrontation.

One in a series of discussions about you and your money

How to buy life insurance you can live with.

When you spend more money for something than you have to—it hurts. And when you don't exactly understand what you're spending it on—that hurts even worse.

Take life insurance. Only one of the many hard-to-understand things about life insurance is this: a $30,000 policy can cost more than $1000 a year or less than $100 a year.

Confusing, isn't it? We hope in this discussion to take some of the confusion out of life insurance—first by showing you that life insurance isn't as complicated as it sounds—and then by telling you how to buy it at remarkably low cost.

At first glance there seem to be a lot of different kinds of life insurance: 20-pay life and whole life; mortgage plans, family plans and investment plans; endowments and annuities. And others.

In reality most of these "kinds" of life insurance aren't different kinds at all. They're just varying forms of two basic types of life insurance: (1) those with cash value, the best known of which is straight life, and (2) term.

Term Insurance

Term insurance is life insurance at its simplest. It offers life protection only and is limited to a specific number of years. It can generally be renewed, however, without physical examination.

Term is far less costly than straight life. For example: at age 35 you might pay $114 a year for a $30,000 five-year term policy as opposed to $535.20 a year for straight life.

When term insurance is renewed, though, its cost goes up so that in later years (after many renewals) it can be more expensive than straight life.

Term is ideal for the person who wants only one thing from life insurance: as much life protection as possible for the premium dollar—at the moment of purchase.

It is fine, too, for the policyholder who is willing to reassess insurance needs at the end of each period of coverage.

Term insurance also suits those who want to handle their savings and other investments separately, not as part of a package that includes life insurance.

Straight Life

Straight life costs more than term but has more to offer. It provides a discipline of "forced" saving. It builds a cash value which can be borrowed against and allowed to accumulate as part of your net worth.

It also serves as a tax shelter for interest on savings.

For as long as you hold the policy, straight life costs the same as when you bought it, based of course on your age at that time.

Straight life appeals to those who want to make a decision just once and who want their insurance to serve as a savings plan, too.

Once you've decided between these two basic types of insurance, how much should you pay? And where should you buy?

About Costs

A widely held misbelief about life insurance is that the same policies cost the same amounts of money no matter where you buy them. Nothing could be farther from the truth.

If you can be insured as a teacher or a member of the clergy, chances are you're paying life insurance rates that are very low. If you are covered by group insurance where you work, chances are those rates are also very low.

But when you are not eligible for group insurance of any kind or when you want to add an individual policy to your group coverage—if you live and work in New York State your best place to buy life insurance is a Savings Bank.

Savings Bank Life Insurance

Appropriately, this kind of life insurance is called Savings Bank Life Insurance (SBLI). You can buy it in amounts up to $30,000 in term or straight life, in any of their variations to fit your needs.

Because you buy Savings Bank Life Insurance directly from a Savings Bank (there are no outside salesmen) the lower selling expenses are passed on to you in the form of lower rates.

For instance: a $30,000 five-year renewable term policy would cost you, at age 25, only $88.50 a year at a Savings Bank; at age 30 only $96.30 a year; at 35 only $114. And all these costs could be reduced by dividends as earned.

At a Savings Bank

Life Insurance (SBLI) at low cost is another outstanding example of the many ways Savings Banks work with you and your money to help provide you with your basic human needs—in this case life insurance at substantial savings.

But it's the sort of thing you'd expect from a Savings Bank.

Because Savings Banks have a long continuing tradition of serving people. Specializing in the human side of banking, they have a genuine concern for you and your money that goes far beyond savings alone. It involves every facet of your personal financial life. Your home: buying it...and improving it. Education for your children. And low-cost life insurance. All this, of course, in addition to the service they are named for—savings.

The Savings Banks of New York State publish a monthly bulletin entitled "You and Your Money" which contains helpful information on saving, buying, borrowing, budgeting and other aspects of personal finance.

Board of Education Acts on Report

New Method of Grading Courses Adopted in Red Hook

The Red Hook Board of Education has decided to adopt a weighted grading method, grading secondary students according to the difficulty of the course.

The matter was presented to the board Monday night by District Principal Russell J. Keefe, who stated that the recommendation of secondary Principal Richard Barringer was the result of a two-year study and consultation with faculty.

The new grading method will grant more honor points to an "A" for example in calculus (4.0) than an "A" in woodworking (3.5). The rationale for this discrepancy put forward by Keefe is that the more difficult subjects require more effort, most are academically oriented (college bound students), and class ranking is more meaningful to those students.

Board President William Taylor said that the new grading system would, in fact, rectify an inequality in the grading rather than create an unjustified difference.

Keefe drew a parallel with most college grading systems, which award honor points on a scale granting 4.0 for a science course with laboratory work, and perhaps a 2.0 for music appreciation. He said the new system seemed preferable to releasing two separate "honor rolls" for A-rated and B-rated courses.

When asked if students seemed ready to accept such a change, Keefe said that preliminary indications would seem to support that conclusion.

An area first may have been recorded by the board in approving the formation of an ESP Club.

The Extra Sensory Perception Club would delve into such parapsychological phenomena as telekinesis, clairvoyance, teleportation and mental telepathy during an activity period.

It will be advised by Murray Van Ness, music instructor, and the group will consist of about 15 students. No field trips are immediately anticipated. Dr. George Michael, board member, stated firmly that unnecessary transportation is being curtailed in the district because "buses are up tight and fuel is up tight."

Students also received board approval to conduct another Teach-In, a special student organized educational experience with guest speakers and subjects of general interest that has proved successful in past years. No date has been set.

Business Manager Earl Priant received board accolades for efficiency in district matters as the 1972-73 audit of the district finances by district auditor Morton J. Glickman of Hudson and the budget review memo of the State Education Department on its acceptance of the 1973-74 budget cited outstanding cooperation.

An experienced remedial reading teacher has been hired by the district to administer its new Title One elementary remedial reading program, coordinating the work of all teachers and a school psychologist. New teacher is Miss Jean Rennolds, reading specialist.

William Donnelly was approved as new director of the district's extensive adult education program, which handles from 220-250 students per semester.

New Paltz Democrats at Conference

'Town Needs Sane Zoning'

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ The question of growth and what threat it holds for the Town of New Paltz occupied much of a press conference held Monday afternoon by the Democratic candidates for town offices in the upcoming elections.

The candidates at the conference were John Logan, supervisor candidate; Ralph Kulseng and John Vett, councilman candidates; Alan Sussman, for town justice; Kathy Puglisi, for town clerk; and Al Krom, for superintendent of highways.

Logan and the town board candidates all cited growth as a major threat. Logan said the town needed "a tight and restrictive zoning ordinance." Kulseng said the town needed "sane zoning," and Vett called for keeping "growth to a minimum" until something is done about the town's traffic problems.

The proposed Tri-State development of a regional shopping center east of the Village on Route 299 is a campaign issue. Logan said the town-granted water and sewer districts for the development showed an "eagerness" on the part of town officials to extend municipal services, and he would see that the areas closest to the core of New Paltz were supplied first if he were elected. Vett said the public notices in connection with the districts were wrong. Logan said also that the districts had been granted without the drainage problems of the proposed center being studied.

Kulseng said if he were elected he would press for the repeal of the planned unit development (PUD) and variable density residential sections to town zoning, saying they "unzoned" the town.

No candidate wanted to place a number limit on the size of New Paltz in the future, but Logan said it would be best to have "not much more than double what we have now."

Vett said, "New Paltz is entitled to some two-party government." He said as far as he has been able to determine, the town has not had that in about 40 years. He said the last Democratic supervisor was elected in 1936.

He scored that attitude of the State Department of Transportation toward New Paltz' traffic problems. He said the DOT thought New Paltz had no problem, but "apparently they have not driven around New Paltz on weekends or at certain times of the day."

Kulseng, in addition to calling for repeal of the PUD and RV sections, said he would seek a review and analysis of the whole zoning ordinance, and the establishment of a joint Town-Village Planning Commission to coordinate planning activities throughout the municipality. Though he called for more restrictive zoning, Logan said he did not favor the drastic upzoning recommended by the town planning board, and turned town by the town board. He said the proposals would only serve to drive development into PUDs and RVs, would have "very nearly destroyed local home builders," and were done with "a broad brush."

Sussman disclosed at the press conference that he had been denied access to the justice court records of his opponent, Republican incumbent Town Justice Rexford Schneider. Sussman said the records were open as a matter of law. He also said it was illegal for Schneider to sit on cases brought before him by his son-in-law, William Luedeke, a New Paltz Town patrolman. He pledged to hold a completely open and public court, something he said was not being done now.

Mrs. Puglisi said if she were elected, unprofessional, slipshod carelessness and improper actions in the town clerk's office would not be allowed to only be repaired in an election year.

Krom said he would be obligated to the taxpayers of his own construction business, New Paltz, not his party. If but would sell it if elected "so he were elected. He outlined his ideas for better snow removal to even hint that I have a and said that "roads should not conflict of interest."

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, OCTOBER 9, 1973

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Senators would like to question two of America's most mysterious figures — phantom billionaire Howard Hughes and President Nixon's shadowy friend Bebe Rebozo — about their backdoor dealings.

The Senate Watergate Committee has been quietly checking into a column we wrote two years ago about the strange Hughes-Rebozo-Nixon relationship. Last week, the committee's crack investigator, Terry Lenzner, gave his senators his preliminary findings behind closed doors. Here's what he told them: A Hughes henchman, Richard Danner, slipped $100,000 in $100 bills to Rebozo in two separate $50,000 packages, which were delivered directly to the President's cross-country estates at Key Biscayne, Fla., and San Clemente, Calif., in 1969 and 1970. The payments coincided closely with government decisions favorable to Hughes.

In June 1969 President Nixon approved the sale of Air West to Hughes. The following year, the Justice Department reversed an antitrust action which had barred Hughes from expanding his hotel-casino empire in Las Vegas.

MITCHELL'S ANNOUNCEMENT

A few weeks after the final $50,000 delivery was made, then-Attorney General John Mitchell brought Danner into his office and informed him of the favorable antitrust decision.

Lenzner's findings confirm, essentially, what we have written. The White House swore to us that President Nixon never received the $100,000. Danner swore the money was intended as a campaign contribution and was never mentioned to Mitchell. And Rebozo swore through an intermediary that he has never misused any campaign money.

As Lenzner ticked off his findings at the closed-door meeting, Vice Chairman Howard Baker, R-Tenn., expressed quiet dismay. He would like to end the Watergate investigation, but new revelations keep bubbling up.

"If you can verify those facts," he told Lenzner, "we have a whole new can of worms." After the meeting, other Senators told us they would like to take testimony from both Hughes and Rebozo.

1956 CONNECTION

Nixon first got entangled with Hughes in December 1956 when the eccentric billionaire siphoned $205,000 from a political fund in Canada and loaned the money to Nixon's brother Donald. The loan was secured by a vacant family lot appraised at $13,000.

Noah Dietrich, a respected former Hughes executive, told us he tried to dissuade Richard Nixon from approving the loan. Dietrich said he flew to Washington to talk to Nixon, then Vice President, about the loan.

"I tried to discourage him," said Dietrich, "against taking this loan for his brother. I told him, 'You can't keep this quiet. Too many people know.' He told me, 'Noah, I have to consider my family ahead of my political career.'"

A few weeks after Donald Nixon received the $205,000 loan, the Internal Revenue Service granted tax-exempt status to the Howard Hughes Medical Institute. Twice previously, the IRS had refused to treat the Institute as a nonprofit organization.

CURIOUS COINCIDENCE

By an interesting coincidence, IRS, last year conducted an intensive tax investigation of Robert Maheu, who used to run the billionaire's Nevada operation but is now suing him.

Incredibly, two Hughes representatives, Chester Davis and Mickey West, had a ringside seat at an IRS interrogation. When Danner was questioned by IRS field agents Donald Skelton and Richard Lebar, the Hughes people were present.

Danner has admitted this in a deposition that hasn't yet been made public by the court.

"Mr. Chester Davis and Mr. Mickey West were present," testified Danner, "during the investigation."

DAMAGING TESTIMONY

"Who," asked Maheu's attorney, Morton Galane, "was being investigated?"

"Mr. Robert Maheu," said Danner.

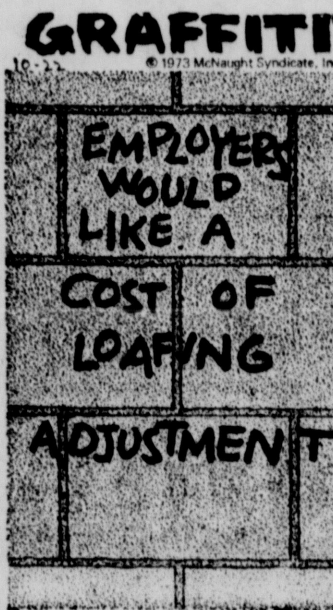

"And Chester Davis was there and you said nothing, and you were giving testimony against Robert Maheu? Is that what you're testifying to, Mr. Danner?" asked the attorney.

"That was substantially the situation," said Danner.

Galane also asked Danner who directed him to appear before the IRS agents "so that you can give sworn testimony to get Robert Maheu into trouble with the United States government?"

Danner testified that he had been contacted by Bob Morgan, Hughes financial officer.

We asked the IRS about these strange circumstances. "There's nothing we can say," a spokesman told us, "not even to confirm that an investigation of Maheu is going on."

Making Oil Available

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY Jr.

Two or three years ago a reclusive and scholarly man of many parts wrote an article suggesting that the United States colonize Libya. Stated thus boldly the proposal is shocking, though of course it is a little less so if understood in a particular context. If it was projected by the statesmen of the world that to permit a stretch of territory to carry on as an international tinderbox would mean world war, it would presumably be better to take control of that country than to suffer the consequences of not doing so. If the head of the United States Secret Service had been mayor of Sarajevo in 1914, who knows, forty million lives might have been spared.

The author of the Libyan proposal argued the stabilizing influence in the Mideast of an American colony, or protectorate, or what have you, and stressed greatly the impact upon Mediterranean naval balance that would result from it. He failed however to stress a distinction which now, with the threat of King Faisal to withhold oil for the west, it is timely to stress, as we give attention to the inherent rights of nations.

It is an axiom of Christian social thought that the individual human being has the right to live. Translated, let us say into a community in which on the one hand there is abundance and on the other hand starvation, the starving man is not — according to Christian principle — guilty of theft when he takes a loaf of bread from the man who has a loaf to spare. The possibilities of abuse in the application of this rule are obvious: the starving man may take to stealing loaves of bread in preference to working in order to earn the money with which to buy the bread.

And it has a national application. Here we run instantly into what is an injustice of sorts, an injustice which, however, there is nothing to be done about. Just as a weak thief cannot succeed in taking a loaf of bread by force from a strong baker, so a weak nation cannot take oil from a strong nation for the simple reason that the strong nation can successfully resist the effort.

And then the distinction between taking from someone without compensation, and taking from someone with compensation. In national practice, as an exercise of power by the government over its own citizens, the distinction is carried in the words to "nationalize," and to "confiscate." The former is acceptable moral practice, the latter unacceptable.

We come then to focus these points on Mideast oil. As a matter of morals, an industrial nation dependent upon oil to avoid instant mass unemployment, the immobilization of its defense, and ultimately the starvation of its people, has the moral right to force a supplier to sell it the oil it needs. In days gone by, statesmen would be amused at the thought that anyone would painstakingly make the point, so obvious was it. But in days gone by the accepted practice, where Nation A against those of oil or timber, or gold, was to pit the armed forces of Nation A against those of Nation B for purely acquisitive reasons.

Somewhere along the line, the nations of western Europe should make a preemptive moral strike against hardening Arab policy. It would take the nature of saying: Mideast oil must be made available.

What if the Mideast countries should say no? Should threaten, and perhaps proceed, to close the pipe lines?

Who says A — one should not tire of repeating — must say B. If western Europe has to have the oil, then it has to take whatever means are necessary to acquire it. Yes, that means that the Western military must, at the margin, be prepared to let us say, land an expeditionary force in Libya.

But having done so, and having turned the faucets back on, the morally distinguishing feature of their enterprise is that they must buy the oil, not take it. Must continue as in the past to pay for the oil to the treasury of the Libyan people. Just so one might have imagined that if it had been essential to western security, The British fleet might have kept open the Suez Canal by force — while continuing to pay tariffs to the Egyptian government.

That analysis should be pressed, quietly and with civility, in the chancelleries of the world. The best thing about making such arguments is that it often results in not having to put theory into practice.

Washington Calling

No Checkrein on Defense Spending

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON — To most Americans suffering from high prices, high taxes and increasing shortages of necessities it will be interesting news that the big weapons makers swept the board in the Senate. With the help of intensive lobbying by the Pentagon, specifically Adm. Elmo Zumwalt, Chief of Naval Operations, and the White House they beat back every attempt to check the speed-up in spite of the carefully documented case presented by one of the 100, who as much as any individual in or out of government knows the weapons score. Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo.

Senator Symington, a member of both Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committee, was initially a hawk after his term as the first Secretary of the Air Force. In later years he came to understand the disastrous threat of the war-making powers inherent in the military-industrial complex and the accumulation of vast stores of nuclear weapons spread around the world.

In a presentation to the appropriations subcommittee of Armed Services, later put in the record, Symington showed the folly of added billions to speed up weapons research and development. He did this in the most conspicuous example, documenting the way the Pentagon reversed itself from and orderly progress on the Trident submarine to a crash program highly dubious quite apart from the vast sums involved.

The giant submarine with a missile having a range from 4,500 to 5,000 miles and costing at least $1.2 billion each under Pentagon calculations of two years ago was to be preceded by modernization of the Poseidon submarine fleet. That would be done by fitting to present subs the Trident I missile, extending the range by 1,500 miles. This would mean a significant increase in the area in which each U.S. sub could operate. What happened next, according to Symington, was:

"Last year for reasons we have never been able to fully understand a lobbying effort, the most intense in my 28 years in government, was undertaken and thereupon normal businesslike procedure went out the window. . . . From the standpoint of good shop practice consider the fact that under this accelerated production program all 10 Trident submarines will be funded and under construction before the first one is completed."

This looks like a sure invitation to cost overruns, such as have occurred with the speed-up of other complex weapons systems. The tab for the giant submarine is almost certain to exceed the estimates put forward by the Pentagon.

A subcommittee of Armed Services on research and development conducted a thorough study of the Trident project — the only group to do so — and reached the conclusion that, following the earlier Pentagon proposal, it would be possible to save $885 million and bring in the new giant by 1980. The subcommittee made the case for more smaller submarines with fewer launchers rather than a few big submarines with many launchers. In other words, all the eggs should not be put in one basket.

The recommendation of the subcommittee was approved by Armed Services by a vote of 8 to 7. Later however, Sen. Barry Goldwater was persuaded to change his vote and the full committee voted $1.527 billion for the speed-up. The effort to delay construction of a new $1 billion super nuclear aircraft carrier met the same fate. The argument was that construction could be delayed until a replacement was needed for the force of 15 carriers into the 1980s and beyond.

Last year Congress approved $299 million for a start on the carrier and the economists argued that since only about $10 million of this had been spent the balance could be saved until the need for still another addition to the fleet of modern carriers was demonstrable. But the Senate approved the $657 million for the current fiscal year that was part of the $3.9 billion for shipbuilding requested by the Navy. This was $1 billion more than was appropriated last year.

The weapons makers and their principal proponents in the Senate, foremost among them Sen. Henry M. (Scoop) Jackson, push the scare of falling behind the Soviet Union in the Seaplane race. Jackson opposed the armed limitation agreement reached in SALT I. He was responsible for calling a rare closed session of the Senate at which Central Intelligence Agency specialists testified to a Soviet push for new and bigger weapons of annihilation.

So, the race goes on with a meager hope that SALT II may produce at least a pause.

Trade Balance Improves

A United States trade surplus of $3 billion to $4 billion was forecast for 1974 by C. Fred Bergsten, senior Fellow at the Brookings Institute and former economic advisor to Henry A. Kissinger. Bergsten took part in a seminar on business in 1974 by the Conference Board at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York.

Bergsten also predicted that major changes in foreign, direct investment is bound to strengthen the dollar. He said that many American companies are also cutting back or even eliminating expenditures. Changes in cost calculations caused by exchange rate changes are the cause.

Many foreign countries will be investing here and the tight money market will strengthen the dollar further, said Bergsten. He recalled that the credit crunch of 1969-70 induced repatriation of $15 billion by American banks. The amount of dollars abroad now—termed the "overhang"—he estimated to be $100 billion, providing an even larger potential source of dollar reflows now.

However, Bergsten did not try to predict the outlook for the dollar in 1974. Even a strong current balance of payments does not necessarily mean a strong dollar, he warned. To renew the risk of renewed dollar depreciation, something that no one in an official position in the U.S. Government even contemplates, Bergsten emphasized that it was essential to "consolidate the dollar overhang."

By that, he meant that the huge number of dollars abroad must be brought home so that they do not act as temptation to speculators who have again and again found it profitable to sell dollars. The climate in this country invites dollars back home and the time for their repatriation cannot be more profitable, while at the same time their return would also be helpful to business and the economy generally.

Special Milk Funds

The agreement of House and Senate conferees on a $9.9 billion fund, for farm, food stamp, school milk, environment and consumer protection, includes $97 million to reinstate special milk programs that were cut off for 40 million of the nation's school children just before the start of school last month.

Though the smallest item in the fund, it attracted plenty of attention. The milk program was discontinued by the Department of Agriculture, which said it would continue it for some six million who attend school with no lunch program. The decision meant that most schools would have to find some source for average of three cents per half pint that the federal subsidy underwrote.

SUBURBS WILL SHRINK—Because of the energy crisis, Robert Dorsey, the president of the Gulf Oil Corporation, believes that suburban people will move back into the cities and use mass transit for their infrequent trips "to the country." We disagree. Now we've had a taste of the green fields, more of us will move to stay, "out there," even if it means different occupations. "Get a horse!" may still be the better solution.

A Senate committee found that many schools around the country were raising their lunch prices or decreasing the quality of their lunches partly in response to rising costs, with a resulting drop in the number of children who participate.

The $97 million for the milk program was put in the Senate's version and the House conferees went along. Now it is up to the President and it is expected he will sign. The total for all the programs covered by the funds is $408 million more than the budget but down $2.8 billion from last year's spending level. It should satisfy the President's demand for responsible spending.

FOUR-STAR ADMIRAL—The Senate joined the House in voting four-star standing to Admiral Hyman G. Rickover, the father of the nuclear Navy, a day after it voted to accelerate development of the Trident nuclear submarine. It is well deserved recognition of the man who has designed and seen through to operation the whole American nuclear submarine fleet and deterrent to would-be aggressors.

Teener Sought in Four Deaths

HELMVILLE, Mont. (UPI) — youth was employed at the dude ranch where the killings took place.

Collings said Caryl first shot Samuel Atkins, 42, and his son, Steven, 18, with whom he shared a cabin at the Whitetail Ranch. Then, according to the officer, he killed the manager, John Miller, 23, and the cook, Ruby Judd, 62.

Sheriff's deputies said Roger Caryl, 17, who liked to be called "Tex McCord" after a famed 19th-century bandit, was carrying several weapons including a 7mm rifle which "could blow a man's head off at 500 yards."

Montana Highway Patrolmen, deputies and Fish and Game Department wardens were stationed every two miles along a north-south road between U.S. 12 and Montana 200 in the manhunt.

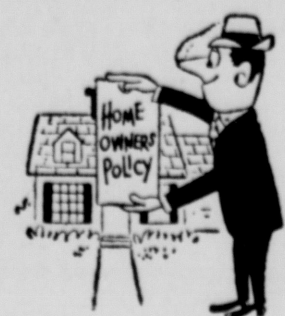

Sheriff David Collings said Caryl is suspected of killing the four persons Sunday, possibly because he was ordered to bury a dog he had shot to death. The Witnesses who scattered this small southwest Montana when the violence erupted told community. They said he severed telephone lines there. Collings said Caryl told his victims: "I have a few hellos for you" and "Here's a hello for you," then blasted them with a shotgun.

Deputies said Caryl spent the night after the shooting in an unoccupied ranchhouse near Ill.

His father, James, 49, a mechanic at a farm implement manufacturing firm, told reporters at Decatur: "If they have to shoot him, they'll just have to. I hope they get him before he hurts anyone else."

"Everytime the phone rings we hope that we'll get word that they've caught him."

'Mystery Copters' Spotted

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese Air Force spotted two "mystery" helicopters Friday within 50 miles of Saigon and two truce helicopters were shot at but not hit, the high command announced today. "It's too bad only spotter planes did the sighting instead of heavier planes with guns on them," a spokesman remarked. The Saigon command said what it called "mystery" helicopters were spotted Friday morning near Don Luan, 60 miles north of Saigon, and near Phu Giao, 35 miles north of the capital. A command spokesman said June ICCS aircraft drew ground

Broaden Strip Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A strip mine regulation bill, defended as a "state's rights" measure but attacked as "federal dictation," has been broadened by the Senate to ban surface mining for coal on millions of acres in the West. In the only roll call vote during the first day of debate on the bill, the Senate voted 53 to 33 Monday to prohibit strip mining of privately owned land to which the federal government holds the mineral rights. Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said the government has the rights to 1.7 million acres in eastern Montana alone, and 88 per cent of the surface is in private ownership. "Some of these families have lived there since the time of Custer and before," he told the Senate.

Seven in Custody In Upstate Kidnap

PENN YAN, N.Y. (UPI) — Wesley. Police said several Seven men were being held without bail on charges of first-degree reckless endangerment today after one of the men allegedly abducted his son from his estranged wife's trailer Monday near the Finger Lakes community of Italy. Police said Vance Mills, 22, of Gambrells, Md., and six men, all relatives from West Virginia, were being held in the Yates County jail following their arrest. A seventh man was still being sought, police said. The boy was reported safe and unharmed after the incident, troopers said. Authorities said Mills and his relatives went to the trailer of Delaphine Mills and allegedly took the Mills' 2-year-old son.

Woman Listed As Satisfactory

ROSENDALE
A 20-year-old Kingston woman was admitted to Kingston Hospital in satisfactory condition today after sustaining injuries in a two-car accident in the Village of Rosendale shortly before 8 a.m.

The injured woman was identified by Village Police as Sharon Wert, of 302 Washington Avenue. Police said the woman's car was proceeding along Route 32 when an auto operated by Ralph Galevaler, 22, of Route 213, Rosendale, pulled from the Route 213 intersection in front of the Wert car.

Galevaler was issued a summons for failure to yield the right of way following the collision. Both cars were towed from the scene, police said. Galevaler was uninjured, according to police.

Bad Brake, Summons Issued

WEST HURLEY
State Police issued a summons to a man for having an inadequate emergency brake after his auto, which was parked in a gas station in West Hurley, rolled into a car stopped for a red light at the intersection of Routes 375 and 28, and then continued rolling until it struck a second service station building across Route 375.

The runaway vehicle was owned by Alan Canoles, 29, of Route 2, Box 466, Saugerties. Police said it rolled from the West Hurley Exxon Station, struck a car operated by William Frank Jr., 38, of West Hurley, and then struck the corner of the Mobile Service Station building. No injuries were reported.

Two Arrested

Hurley State Police arrested two 15-year-old juveniles Monday on burglary charges in connection with the theft of two guns from a building owned by the Morgan Hill Game Association on Sept. 29. Police said the guns, a 12-gauge shotgun and a .22 caliber rifle, were recovered at the time of the arrests. The juveniles, who were not identified, were placed in the custody of their parents pending family court action.

Valerie Naccarato Weds D. A. Dutcher

Valerie Regina Naccarato of Glasco and Dennis Allen Dutcher of Saugerties were married at St. Joseph's Church in Glasco. The Rev. Joseph Santulin officiated at the double ring ceremony. Josann Greco of Glasco and Mike Schovel of Saugerties sang wedding selections.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Naccarato of Glasco.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a gown of marquisette over moire accented with Chantilly lace and tiers of tiny pearls. Her Chantilly lace veil was ice blue and she carried a bouquet of spider chrysanthemums, white rosebuds and baby's breath.

Joann Farrell of Saugerties was honor attendant in a gown of imported chiffon fashioned with a light blue bodice featuring a high, keyhole neckline and long, sheer Juliette sleeves. The multi-colored print skirt in shades of blue and orchid was styled in a demi-bell silhouette. Wide royal velvet ribbon encircled the fitted Empire waistline and matching narrow ribbon banded the high, stand-up collar, trimmed the bodice and accented the cuffs. She wore a matching ribbon in her hair and carried a bouquet of pink carnations with sprays of baby's breath.

Attendants were Shirley

Naccarato, Saugerties, sister-in-law of the bride; Pam Surrutte, Kingston; Cherie Pulcastro of Mt. Marion; and Cindy Sumpter of Lake Katrine. Lisa Naccarato, cousin of the bride, served as flower girl.

The attendants and flower girl were gowned identically to the honor attendant except with deeper romance blue chiffon bodices over matching print skirts. They carried arrangements of carnations and baby's breath.

James Ray Naccarato, brother of the bride, Saugerties, was best man. Ushers were Mark Ferraro, cousin of the bride, Kingston; Charles Burdick of Glasco; Andy McGinley of Kingston; Thomas Milo of Lake Katrine. James R. Naccarato Jr., nephew of the bride, was junior usher. Darren Naccarato, nephew of the bride, served as ringbearer.

A reception was given at Roberto's Restaurant in Port Ewen.

The bride is a graduate of Saugerties High School and Ulster County Community College where she was a dean's list student. During the summer, she studied art and served as an art model. Her husband is employed at Howard Johnson's in Saugerties.

After a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Canada, the couple will reside in Glasco.

Reservations for 'The Internationale' At the Granit Hotel Are Pouring In

Reservations for one of Ulster County's most outstanding social events of the year — "The Internationale," which will be presented with a Polynesian flavor, Sunday, Oct. 28 at the Granit Hotel in Kerhonkson, have been pouring in, according to Paul DeLisio, chairman of the Benedictine Hospital's fund-raising affair.

DeLisio attributes the response to the great success of last year's Internationale at which the food, music and entertainment captured the party-goers' fancy with a lavish buffet of hors d'oeuvres with round-the-world tastes to suit every palate.

This year the format calls for a cocktail hour from 6 to 7:30 p.m. and a continuous buffet dinner to be served from 7:30 to 10 p.m. While guests are being served cocktails and the buffet, entertainment will be provided in Polynesian style and will be followed by a floor show in the Granit's night club. Dancing music will be provided by the Granit Band throughout the evening.

The buffet will feature Polynesian roast pork, a variety of gourmet fish dishes and roast sirloin of beef.

Guests will be greeted with smiles and leis by Benedictine nurses, including Philippine RN's who joined the staff several years ago.

Mrs. Augustus Brinnier, 41 Johnston Avenue, Kingston, is accepting reservations.

Serving with DeLisio as co-chairmen are Mrs. Edward J. Coppo and Mrs. Anthony Vicevich. Mrs. Philip Gordon heads the arrangements committee assisted by Mrs. Mansoor Hakim and Mrs. Donald MacIsaac.

Serving on the decorations committee is Mrs. Francis J. Vogt and Mrs. Thomas Wickman. Guido D'Alessio, hospital director of fiscal services, is in charge of finance and Harry C. Kaprelian is in charge of entertainment.

Also included on the Internationale committee are Assistant Administrator Gerald H. Nocton Sr.; Mrs. Howard Buck, Auxiliary president; Donald MacIsaac, Tony Bell, Philip Gordon, Dr. Anthony Vicevich, Anthony Costa, Jack Turk, J. Ellis Briggs, Mrs. Jay O'Neil, Mrs. Michael Loughran, Mrs. Richard Sackler and Mrs. Guy Valeo. Lynn Mulvaney is in charge of publicity.

Catskill Glee Club to Perform Here

The St. James United Methodist Church, corner of Fair and Pearl Streets, Kingston will present the Catskill Glee Club on Sunday, Oct. 14, at 7:30 p.m., as part of the church's month long 150th Anniversary observance.

The Catskill Glee Club, now in its 47th season, has presented more than 500 concerts at home and "on the road." The popular singing group presents a varied program that all ages can enjoy. The chorus is under the direction of Donald S. Fellows with Mildred Fellows as accompanist and Barbara Dickman as assistant accompanist.

When the glee club appears Sunday evening, two outstanding soloists will be presented to round out the program: Loretta O'Loughlin, contralto, of Catskill; and the Rev. John Grant, baritone, of Leeds.

Mrs. O'Loughlin is soloist at St. Patrick's Church and the Methodist Church in Catskill, and has an extensive concert background.

The Rev. Grant, pastor of the Leeds Reformed Church, sang professionally on the stage before entering the ministry. He was a member of the chorus at Radio City, New York, where he often was called on to do solo work. His credits also include concert and orations work and an extended USO tour during World War II.

Another highlight of the church's celebration will be a fashion show on Saturday, Oct. 13, at 7:30 p.m., with models wearing authentic gowns and antique apparel from 150 years ago to today's modern counterpart. Refreshments will be served. Tickets for this unusual event may be obtained from Mrs. Percy Russell, 154 O'Neil Street, Kingston.

The Sunday evening concert is open to the public at no charge, however a free will donation may be made at the church. Persons will be seated on a first come first served basis.

'Awake and Sing' Slated at Paltz

The Department of Theater Arts at State University College at New Paltz will present its first production of the season, October 10 through 14 at the campus McKenna Theatre.

Clifford Odets' prize winning drama, Awake and Sing, is a compassionate study of life in the Jewish ghetto of the Bronx during the 1930's. The play, which is both moving and funny, focuses in on one family's struggles during this time of economic hardship.

Awake and Sing is directed by Frank Kraat, whose directing credits in the New Paltz area include The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie, The Firebugs, Twelfth Night, Oh, What a Lovely War and Little Mary Sunshine. Kraat has been hard at work in rehearsal with a group of talented New Paltz students since early September.

Performances are at 8:30 p.m. October 10 through 13 with a 2 o'clock matinee on Sunday, Oct. 14. Tickets are available at the McKenna Theatre box office.

MRS. GORDON TAYLOR, chairman of Woodstock Weavers, has been appointed chairman of the textile library for the Handweavers Guild of America, a national organization devoted exclusively to handweaving. Mrs. Taylor is pictured here at her weaving loom in Woodstock. Mrs. Taylor has announced that her group, Woodstock Weavers, will be meeting Thursday, Oct. 11 at 1:30 p. m. in the Woodstock Guild of Craftsman, Tinker Street. The program will focus attention on the preliminary steps in the M & O project, a form of twill. The annual Craftsman Show at the Guild will be discussed also. All members and interested area weavers are invited to attend. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Dinner-Dance At Mohonk House

On Saturday, Oct. 13, the 1973 edition of the Rondout Valley Scholarship Fund Dinner-Dance will take place at Mohonk Mountain House. Formal presentation of 1973 scholarship awards will be made, and proceedings will start with a Dutch Treat cocktail hour at 7 p.m., followed by a roast beef dinner, and dancing.

Since the Fund was established in 1965, a total of 35 scholarships have been awarded. Recently, Fund directors have been making an informal survey of scholarship recipients from the 1964 to 1969 period, since these students have had time to complete at least four years of college. Fifteen awards were made in those four years.

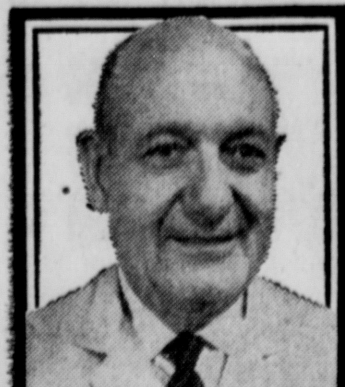

Out of this group of 15 Rondout Valley High School graduates, 14 have attained Bachelor's degrees, four have earned Master's degrees, and two are working on Ph.D.'s. None has failed to complete four years of college, and the group boasts four Phi Beta Kappas.

Organizations and individuals in the Rondout Valley District who have contributed to the Fund can feel justly proud of their share in this impressive picture. Attendance at the annual dinner-dance is an important way of helping make these awards possible, and enjoying a social evening in the process. To make reservations contact Chairman Mrs. Betty Abu-Gheida, High Falls, or Co-Chairman Mrs. Esther Denksenoh, Kerhonkson.

Fields of study include English Education, History, Occupational-Physical Therapy, Economics, Medicine, Accounting, Spanish Education, Engineering Mathematics and Chemistry. Colleges and universities attended cover an equally wide range: the Universities of Florida, Arizona, Vermont, and New Hampshire, New York University, Colgate, Gettysburg College, Douglass College, Russell Sage Northeastern, Albany Medical, Syracuse University, Harpur University, and the State Universities of New York at Albany and Buffalo.

TAKE A LENGTH OF FELT — At a recent workshop meeting of the Sawyer Homemakers, members used their imaginations in more ways than one. While thinking Christmas, they constructed original felt wall hangings of various shapes and colors with a Yuletide theme. Pictured putting on some of the finishing touches are (L-R) Mrs. Richard Cyr, Mrs. Helsmoortel and Mrs. Joseph LaSusa. The wall hangings and other craft items will be featured at the annual Christmas Open House on Thursday, Oct. 11 in the Kingston Armory. The Open House program is sponsored by the Home Economics Division, Co-operative Extension Association of Ulster County, and is open to the public. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

DEAR ABBY: Would you please write something in your column about overly affectionate fathers who encourage intimate body contact (all in the spirit of playfulness) with their teenage daughters?

This horseplay between my son in law and his 13-year-old daughter involves a lot of wrestling and touching, but I was shocked when I saw them rolling around on the bed (in the parents' bedroom) while my daughter was busy putting on her make-up in the adjoining bathroom.

Abby, this grandchild is just coming into young womanhood, and it's possible for her to become sexually stimulated and aroused by this sort of thing. Soon enough she will be faced with sex with her peers, which is normal and natural, but such teasing from her father worries me.

I don't want to hurt my daughter by even suggesting that her husband keep his hands off his daughter. She might even be offended.

Frankly, I am ashamed to be writing this letter. I don't think I'm evil-minded, and I'm not prude, but perhaps my son in law will see it and take the hint. If you think I am wrong, please say so. I'll be able to take that, too.

WORRIED GRANNY
Touching and hugging is a normal healthy expression of affection between fathers and daughters. But you make a good point. Teen-age girls should be taught that their bodies are "private," and not to be manhandled by anyone — fathers included. And fathers should refrain from intimate horseplay with their budding young daughters. As revolting as the idea may be to some, it's possible for parents and children to be turned on sexually by each other, so intelligent restraint should be exercised.

DEAR ABBY: To "camille," who wrote to you of her involvement in remembering lonely patients in a nursing home, and to your fervent hope that the idea "will catch on."

I can add to the story by telling you that in Columbus, Ohio, there is a "Remembered Patient Program" of 15 years standing in one of our hospitals for mental patients. People in the community remember the more than 500 patients who have no families or friends by sending cards and or gifts thruout the year on birthdays and other occasions. Some send money that is deposited to the patients' accounts and that enables them to purchase their own items in the patient commissary.

It is a beautiful sight for the three of us who work on the committee and for the dedicated staff employed by the hospital, to see the birthday cakes and gifts that are delivered by these concerned "friends"; at Christmastime the delivery trucks from local department stores make daily deliveries, bringing gifts to patients who might otherwise be forgotten.

If you know of any who would be interested in this kind of program, we will be happy to provide material.

THE REMEMBERED PATIENT COMMITTEE,

and Verna Bowyer

IN PHOENIX: Don't look back. There's not a man alive who couldn't retire comfortable in his old age if he could sell his experience for what it cost him.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Honors Are Awarded to Rose Society Officers

Outstanding honors in the American Rose Society were awarded to Martin Kelly of High Falls and Robert Keagle of Accord, recently named Consulting Rosarians in the Mid-Hudson Rose Society. The announcement was made by Mrs. Dorothy Yoerg, president of the Mid-Hudson Rose Society, at a meeting in the Bonanza Office of Heritage Savings Bank, Kingston.

The appointments which were made by the New York State District Director, Floyd F. Taylor of Schenectady, were in recognition of exceptional services to members and friends of the Mid-Hudson Rose Society. Kelly and Keagle, first and second vice president, respectively, of the Society have assisted numerous rose growers with their cultural problems and have helped to organize the Mid-Hudson Rose Society, a non-profit organization dedicated to beautify communities. They have also written and published a newsletter, The Rose Petal, to provide additional information for members.

In announcing the awards, Mrs. Yoerg explained that being a Consulting Rosarian means sharing technical knowledge, participating in every aspect of the rose society to which he belongs, arranging rose shows, giving slide presentations at meetings, writing articles for the news media, and stimulating greater interest in growing roses.

Another honor was also awarded to Martin Kelly. At the New York State District Convention and Rose Show at Syracuse in September, he received the top award, the Queen of the Rose Show, for the best rose in the show, a Peace rose. In competition with 17 other rose societies throughout the state, he received a silver trophy for the rose and for the best grandiflora of the show, a Queen Elizabeth spray.

A Mini Rose Show was held at the recent meeting in which many members participated. More than 50 roses were entered. Members voted for the best roses. Blue ribbons were awarded to Mrs. B. Gocken of Grahamsville; Mrs. Elise Tolson of New Paltz; Mrs. Lucy Carlson of Grahamsville; Dwight Mackey, Newburgh; Mrs. Jaon Cosenza, Kingston; Mrs. Dagmar Yaddow, Rhinebeck; Martin Kelly, High Falls; and Mrs. Dorothy Yoerg, Ulster Park.

Miss Lily Shohan, program chairman, showed colored slides of roses taken at Star Roses, West Grove, Pa. Refreshments were served.

The next meeting of the Society is slated for Wednesday, Oct. 24 at 8 p.m. at Heritage Savings Bank, 273 Wall Street, Kingston. A special program is planned. Public is invited.

Dear Mrs. Post:

My son is being married in an afternoon wedding. The men will all wear brown Edwardian tuxedos, and I am expected to wear a long dress. My husband had expected to wear a dark business suit, but the bride feels it's not dressy enough and wants him to wear a conservative tuxedo. Should he please the bride?

Mrs. Fleming

Altho your husband has no official part in the wedding and is not obligated to dress as the attendants do, it would cast a shadow over the proceedings if he were to make an issue of it. If he wears a business suit, it will look as tho he is deliberately saying, "I don't approve." So, for the sake of family harmony, try to persuade him to go along with the bride's wishes.

Incidentally, tuxedos are not the correct wear for an afternoon wedding unless it is very late afternoon. They are evening wear. But since that is the costume the couple have chosen, it would be wrong for your husband to wear a "stroller" or "sack" coat (the correct clothing).

Dear Mrs. Post:

My husband and I are nondrinkers and I would appreciate knowing whether we should serve drinks when

Prices at Same High Level

By and large, consumers will find retail meat prices holding at the same high level as that of last week, according to the Consumer and Market Information Service of the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets. There will, however, be some cuts on sale, but consumers, to take advantage of these sale prices, will have to shop around.

Among the economical beef busy to look for are short ribs at 69 cents, chuck roast blade cut at 69 cents to 77 cents, chuck steak from 77 cents to 89 cents, frankfurters from 99 cents to $1.29, and ground beef at 99 cents. Other cuts on sale will be rib steak at $1.49, Swiss steak $1.25 to $1.49, cube steak $1.59 to $1.79, London broil at $1.69. Features on various beef roasts will generally be in the vicinity of $1.39.

In the pork line, the best buys will likely run to ham as sales on ham shanks will range from 77 cents to 89 cents, and ham butts from 87 cents to 99 cents. Other pork items on sale will be loin roasts from 79 cents to 89 cents, bacon from 99 cents to $1.49, spareribs from 89 cents to 99 cents, fresh picnics 69 cents, smoked picnics 79 cents, Polish sausage 79 cents, and roll sausage as low as 59 cents.

Lamb is not likely to be featured. Veal, as usual, is on the expensive side. Poultry, where on sale, will feature fryers from 49 cents to 59 cents, quarters at 55 cents, legs and breasts at 59 cents, and roasting chickens from 59 cents to 69 cents. Also, turkeys at 89 cents and drumsticks from 49 cents to 59 cents.

Maverick Craftsmen to Meet

The Maverick Craftsmen of Ulster County Cooperative Extension Association will meet Wednesday at the home of Mrs. John Reilly, 15 Maverick Terrace, Woodstock, at 12:30 p.m. There will be a "Show and Tell" period with new craft ideas presented by several members. Mrs. Reilly will present a home study packet from the Ulster County Cooperative Extension Association entitled "You Don't Have to Eat Meat to Eat Well."

Mrs. George Papas was appointed chairman of the group's exhibit for Christmas Open House. Open House will be held Thursday, from 1 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. at the Armory. The theme for the Maverick Craftsmen's table will be Let's Wrap It Up. The public is invited to attend.

Vice Chancellor Set at Ulster

STONE RIDGE are open to the public without charge. Dr. Bruce Dearing, vice chancellor for academic programs for the State University of New York, will be one of the speakers at a commemorative ceremony planned for Saturday, Oct. 13, to observe the 10th anniversary of Ulster County Community College.

The anniversary program will begin at 3 p.m. outside John Vanderlyn Hall on the Stone Ridge Campus. The event will also mark the 25th anniversary of the State University of New York.

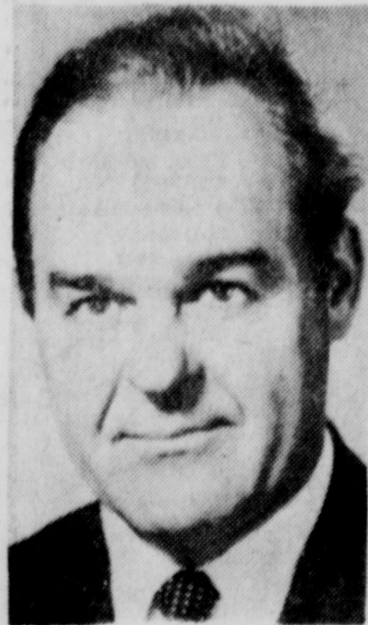

There will be an open house at UCCC from 1:30 p.m. on the 13th At 3:30 p.m., the Haydn Festival Orchestra will present a concert in the John Quimby Auditorium. All of the activities

Dr. Dearing has been a SUNY vice chancellor since 1971. Before that, he was president of the State University College at Binghamton and Dean of the School of Arts and Science at the University of Delaware. He formerly taught at the University of Delaware, University of Massachusetts, Swarthmore College, Cornell University and the University of Minnesota.

Dr. Dearing is the author of some 30 articles and chapters on literature, teaching and higher education in a number of scholarly publications and general circulation magazines. He is a member of various professional societies, and has held national offices in several of them.

CHARLOTTE (UPI) — Cale Yarborough can be sure he won the National 500 here Sunday now that NASCAR officials have decided to disregard minor infractions found in his car and that of second place finisher Richard Petty.

A spokesman at Charlotte Motor Speedway here said Monday race results had been ruled official by NASCAR, though post-race inspections of the cars revealed "borderline infractions" of NASCAR rules.

Top NASCAR officials said errors in pre-race inspection procedures used at the track were made and the action was dropped. No fines were levied.

Third place finisher Bobby Allison filed the protest on the two immediately after the $166,693 race but his protest was later rejected under a NASCAR rule barring protests until 24 hours after a race.

Other infractions were discovered when the engines of the two cars were broken down in the post-race inspection but NASCAR officials did not reveal their nature.

The controversial carburetor restrictor plate proved the most trouble at the track, forcing pole-sitter Charlie Glotzbach to requalify and start 36th when it was found his restrictor was illegal.

And Buddy Baker was pulled from the race by car owner Nord Krauskopf who contended the restrictor rule made Baker's Dodge uncompetitive with the top-running Chevrolets.

Baker's car was disqualified when chief mechanic Harry Hyde refused to allow NASCAR officials to examine the carburetor of the Dodge. All drivers had been told to expect restrictor plate proved the most

Owens, Houston Did Cowboys In

By SAM FOGG

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Free safety Brig Owens won it. Strong safety Ken Houston saved it.

That was the nutshell of the Washington Redskins' 14-7 victory over the previously unbeaten Dallas Cowboys in their nationally televised struggle Monday night which left the two archrivals tied for the National Football Conference Eastern Division lead with 3-1 records.

With 2:33 left to play and the score tied at 7-7, Owens picked off a Craig Morton pass and raced 26 yards into the end zone for the winning margin. With 15 seconds remaining, Houston halted Walt Garrison after a pass reception from Morton on Washington's one to end a desperate bid by the Cowboys for a tie.

"As soon as he threw it, I said 'this is me,'" Owens said of his game-winning interception. "I saw it all the way."

He raced untouched into the end zone to break the tie and most of the Redskin bench raced down the sideline to join in a jubilant celebration.

Owens' TD came shortly after the Redskins had tied the score on Sonny Jurgensen's one-yard pass to Charley Taylor.

One Last Shot

But the Cowboys had one last shot when Mark Washington recovered an accidentally

Dallas reached first and goal on the Redskins four and after three Morton passes were incomplete, he threw to Garrison over the middle to the two and Garrison, a rodeo star in the off-season, bulled toward the goal line. Houston hit him solidly and stopped him at the one and the Redskins had the game.

"It was the biggest tackle I ever made," Houston said. "Morton pumped once, I stepped toward Garrison as he caught it and I brought him down."

The plays by Owens and Houston provided a fitting ending to a game which featured tremendous defense by both teams throughout the tense struggle.

Roger Staubach had passed Dallas to a 7-0 lead in the second period when Otto Stowe made a diving catch of his 15-yard pass in the end zone.

Jurgensen tossed his one-yard TD pass to Charley Taylor to tie the game with 3:30 left to play.

—Staubach was sacked seven times for losses totalling 45 yards before giving way to Morton because of a slight charley horse. Jurgensen was dropped five times for losses of 37 yards.

—Washington blocked one Dallas punt and two field goal attempts. The Cowboys blocked two field goal efforts by Curt Knight.

—Last year's conference rushing champion, Larry Brown, was held to 36 yards rushing on 18 attempts. The Cowboy front four stopped him twice with no gain on their own 10 early in the fourth quarter to take over the ball. Before Jurgensen hit Taylor, Brown had two cracks from the two.

Save time and money. Fly Command and Delta to Florida and all the South.

You'll save money when you fly one of Command's nonstops to New York for an easy connection with a Delta nonstop to Miami, Ft. Lauderdale or Tampa/St. Pete/Clearwater. Also fast service to Atlanta, New Orleans, Houston and all the South.

Why drive to New York to catch your Florida jet? For just $11 more air fare you can fly from Poughkeepsie to New York on Command Airways — when you continue to Miami on Delta. You save the cost of driving. Of parking, too. And think of the convenience.

The total fare from Poughkeepsie, via Command to New York and Delta from there, is only $96 to Miami/Ft. Lauderdale/Hollywood, $90 to Tampa/St. Pete/Clearwater, tax included.

Flying time to New York on Command is a quick 35 minutes. Command's flights arrive at both Kennedy and LaGuardia Airports. Then board a big Delta jet to Florida or a wide choice of major cities across the South.

There's just one phone call for your reservations. One ticket. One check-in. And your luggage is checked right thru to your final destination. So plan now to fly Command and Delta to Miami/Ft. Lauderdale, Tampa/St. Pete. (Or to many other cities.) It makes so much sense! For reservations, call Command Airways in Poughkeepsie at 462-0600 or Delta at 800-225-3600 (toll free). Southern Cal Drops to Fifth in Grid Rating

NEW YORK (UPI)—Southern California continues to fall. The Trojans, defending national champions and overwhelming pre-season No. 1 choice of the United Press International Board of Coaches, slipped to No. 5 in the latest college football ratings after dropping from 1st to third a week ago. Ohio State maintained its No. 1 ranking with 21 first place votes and 334 points from the 35 coaches and Nebraska once again was second with eight No. 1 nods and 308 points. But both Alabama and Michigan moved ahead of Southern California into the 3-4 spots respectively, and the Trojans appear to be losing momentum fast after tying Oklahoma two weeks ago and then struggling to beat heavy underdog Oregon State 21-7 last Saturday, Oklahoma, which had perhaps the week's stiffest test in coming from behind to defeat former No. 18 team

Miami (Fla.) 24-20, remained at No. 6 and the rest of the top 10 also was unchanged with Penn State at No. 7, Tennessee at No. 8, Notre Dame at No. 9 and Louisiana State at No. 10. Coming out of nowhere this week to No. 11 was the one team which could prevent Southern California from even repeating in the Rose Bowl—UCLA. The Bruins, who slaughtered Utah 66-16 last weekend, have apparently recovered from the 40-13 beating they took from Nebraska in the season opener. Arizona State and Houston remained in their respective 12th and 13th positions and

Missouri, which is turning out to be the surprise team of the year, moved up to 14th after knocking SMU from the ranks of unbeaten, 17-7. Tulane, Texas and Colorado completed the top ranked teams which were numbered only 17 this week since the coaches restricted most of their voting around the first ten teams. Here by sections are the coaches who comprise the United Press International Football Ratings Board for University Division schools: EAST: Tom Cahill, Army; Ben Schwartzwalder, Syracuse; Joe Yuckika, Boston College;

Coleman Wins, 4-1

PINE BUSH
Coleman High School's strong soccer team outclassed its third straight Ulster County Athletic League opponent Monday, beating home-standing Pine Bush, 4-1.

The Statesmen banged two goals home in the first half and added another pair in the second half before the Bushmen stopped the shutout with a score off a corner kick in the fourth period.

Chris Bentley, on an assist from Ron Weber, started the winners moving, then Pete Conti took one in all alone, beating two defenders and the goalie on the play. Weber got on the other end of a pass in the second half, scoring off Vince Schell's assist, before Glen Link set up Charles Blum with the final Coleman goal.

"We were a little bit off today, and I told them about it," said Statesman coach Elliott Poggi Asare. "We play Fallsburgh next, and I think we are going to beat them."

Hawk Harriers Sweep in Dual

BRONX
New Paltz State evened its cross country record at 2-2 Sunday by sweeping a dual-meet from Baruch College and New York State Maritime at Van Cortlandt Park.

The Hawks edged Maritime, 27-28, and nipped Baruch, 26-29. Dennis Hoak of Maritime was medalist with a 28:45 clocking for the 5.0 mile course. John Vitale and Dennis Schook of the Hawks ran two-three.

New Paltz has a meet scheduled for Wednesday at Albany State.

Bud Harrelson Lost the Fight . . . But

Reds Are On the Brink of A Knockout

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — "Maybe I did lose the fight," Bud Harrelson said in a subdued voice. "But we won the ball game. That's what really counts."

There was an ugly three-inch scrape over the left eye of the New York Mets' shortstop but a little bitterness left in his heart from the fourth game of baseball's wildest brawl, against Cincinnati today in the National League playoffs and a possible second confrontation with the Reds' fiery left fielder, Pete Rose.

"I don't think this animosity is going to carry over to the rest of the series," Harrelson added after he had regained his composure from the altercation.

"I slide hard but I don't play the final score of the game, and I Cincinnati was batting. There don't think anything would have happened if somebody hadn't hit me while Harrelson was down."

It was a play at second base ending the top half of the fifth inning that set off the melee.

The fight was a dilly. But, like most baseball melees, the damage was slight.

The Mets were leading 9-2, the final score of the game, and Cincinnati was batting. There don't think anything would have happened if somebody hadn't hit me while Harrelson was down."

Rose, the National League's batting champion, insisted his role in the melee was not ignited by spite.

"I slide hard but I don't play the final score of the game, and I Cincinnati was batting. There don't think anything would have happened if somebody hadn't hit me while Harrelson was down."

Rose is an aggressive professional. As long as he didn't do it out of spite, I've got no kinks."

Rose, the National League's batting champion, insisted his role in the melee was not ignited by spite.

"I slide hard but I don't play the final score of the game, and I Cincinnati was batting. There don't think anything would have happened if somebody hadn't hit me while Harrelson was down."

Reds' second baseman, hit a ball sharply down the first base line.

John Milner, the Mets' first baseman, fielded the ball and threw to second, where Harrelson was covering, to get the lead runner, Rose. Harrelson shot the ball back to Milner for the double play.

As Harrelson released the ball, Rose slid into the base with feet flying. The two went down together. As they arose, Harrelson said Rose bumped him with his elbow.

"I said something to Rose—I don't know exactly what—and he said something back at me," Harrelson explained. The two started pushing each other around.

In the flick of an eyelash, players poured out of both dugouts. From the Mets' bullpen came nine men, relief pitchers and catchers, like a football team going down under a punt.

Soon fists were flying. Rose and Harrelson were on the ground. Wayne Garrett, the Mets' third baseman who had jumped into the Rose-Harrelson fistfight at the outset, was flailing away. Buzz Capra of the Mets and big Pedro Borbon of the Reds, both relief pitchers, were throwing haymakers at each other.

While the players grappled and others sought to pull them apart, the crowd of 53,967 watched with mixed awe and delight. There was an added dividend—a baseball game with a lively fight for good measure.

Helmets and baseball caps—red for Cincinnati and blue for the Mets—were strewn all over the infield, like remnants of a battle scene.

"I was standing there watching and trying to break things up," said Capra, "and then—pow!—somebody belted me one. I looked around and there was Borbon at my elbow."

"I thought he did it and I let him have one. Pretty soon both of us were swinging at each other."

Borbon was one of the most incensed of the Reds. He swung wildly at anybody within reach and had to be restrained as he was led back to the bench after the situation had cooled.

He inadvertently put on a Mets' blue cap by mistake. When a teammate mentioned it to him he took it off and ripped it with his teeth.

When the brawl was put down and play was resumed, fans in the left field section began tossing bottles, beer cans and garbage onto the field. A whiskey bottle barely missed Rose, the target of the missiles.

With two outs in the fifth inning and the count 3-1 on the Mets' Felix Millan, Rose angrily left his post and walked to

Rose Smiles More Than Cobb; That's Why He's Not Disliked

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pete Rose is the closest thing around to Ty Cobb today and he'd be every bit as much disliked except for two reasons.

He kids around and smiles far more than Cobb ever did and he doesn't mind helping an enemy ballplayer now and then.

Cobb never did. That was his trademark.

"To hell with him," Cobb would say about any player on a rival club. "Let him help himself."

skinny little Mets' shortstop base and one out. Morgan hit a so intentionally, and then again with whom he tangled in the two-bouncer to first baseman John Milner, who threw to Harrelson coming across second. That's when it all happened.

When both Morgan and Rose finally returned to the Reds' dugout, Morgan said to Rose: "I was running to first. I didn't see anything. What happened?"

"I didn't do anything wrong," Rose said. "I slid like I always do—hard. I tried to break up a double play. What am I supposed to do? They do the same thing to me. He jumped up and said I tried to hit him with my elbow. I told him I didn't. Then he called me a name and looked like he made a motion to go for me, so I just went after him and tried to stop him. Hell, I wasn't trying to hurt him. I know I'm much stronger than he is."

Rose is Truthful
Pete Rose is telling the truth there.

Buddy Harrelson never is going to win any Mr. America contests. His nickname used to be "Twiggy" until he filled out a little lately. Now they still call him "Twiggy," which gives you some idea of how much he has filled out.

Pete Rose may not have done himself. "I have nothing against Harrelson," he said when it was all over. "and I'm not a grudge carrier. I'd have done the same thing if it had been (Teddy) Martinez out there, or Bill Russell or Don Kessinger. I play the same way if we play before 73,000 or 2,000."

When Rose tried to take his leftfield position in the bottom of the fifth, some imbecile up in the top deck flung a bottle at him.

Rose trotted toward the dugout and said to Red Manager Sanky Anderson: "Skip, they threw a bleeping whiskey bottle at me."

Anderson's blood boiled. "That's enough for today," he said, waving his players off the field. "Let's go."

One of the umpires said to Anderson, "we're trying to get this thing straightened out."

"Lemme know when you do," replied the Reds' manager.

With Willie Mays leading the way, some of the other Mets, Tom Seaver, Rusty Staub, Leon Jones and Yogi Berra walked toward leftfield to plead with the fans to calm down.

They did temporarily.

When the Reds left the ballpark though, there were nearly 100 angry fans lined up near the team bus parked behind the leftfield fence.

At the sight of Rose, they set up a tremendous roar, but a police escort hustled the fiery Reds' outfielder into the bus in a hurry.

"I can't wait to get out there tomorrow," he said.

He didn't mean because of the fans or because of Bud Harrelson. He only meant because there was to be another ball game.

You have to know Pete Rose.

Orioles and A's Try Again Today

By JOE SARGIS
UPI Sports Writer

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Baltimore Orioles and Oakland A's try again today to play the third game of the deadlocked American League championship series with Mike Cuellar and Ken Holtzman set once more as starting pitchers.

The third game originally was scheduled for Monday but persistent rain and a soggy field resulted in the game being called off 22 minutes before its 12:30 p.m. PDT starting time by AL President Joe Cronin.

Holtzman, a left-hander who won 21 games during the regular season, and Cuellar, a screwballer who won 18, were supposed to face each other Monday but both earned another day off and will go today instead.

their Jim Hunter can come back at us in the fifth game with three days rest.

Weaver is concerned about Hunter, a Cy Young Award candidate, as well he might be. The A's righthander was the winning pitcher Sunday when the Orioles beat the A's 6-3, to tie the best-of-five series at one victory each.

Jim Palmer, who stopped the A's on five hits in a 6-0 victory Saturday, will pitch for Baltimore Wednesday no matter what, said Weaver. Palmer was a 22-game winner for the Orioles during the season and is believed to be the top candidate for Cy Young honors.

With Holtzman pitching for Oakland today, Weaver will go with his righthanded batting order. That means Merv Rettenmund and Don Baylor will play in the outfield instead of Al Bumbry and Rich Coggins.

William's, though, switched centerfielders, benching Angel Mangual, who has only one hit in eight playoff at-bats, for Billy Conigliaro. When Palmer pitches again, Williams said Vic Davallio will go to center in place of Conigliaro.

Vida Blue, knocked out in the first inning of Saturday's game, I did," Finley said, "so I can't pitch the fourth game, couldn't be angry. I was just disappointed."

Hunter free to come back for the fifth, if necessary.

Weaver will follow Cuellar with Palmer, as indicated, and move Doyle Alexander, a righthander who has had some success against the A's, back for the fifth game. He originally was scheduled to pitch the fourth game.

Another postponement, though, would alter both managers' pitching plans considerably with only Palmer definite as Wednesday's pitcher.

More upset than either Williams or Weaver at Monday's postponement was A's owner Charlie Finley, a mid-summer heart attack victim, who was heard shouting at the Oakland clubhouse a few minutes after the league president made his decision.

Cronin, not wishing to make newsmen there a part of the discussion, told Finley "I don't think we should hold this conversation in front of all these people."

Finley wasn't immediately mollified but later, while eating a box lunch in his office, said he was surprised Cronin called the game off so quickly.

"Mr. Cronin had more facts about the weather at hand than I did," Finley said, "so I couldn't be angry. I was just disappointed."

the weather outlook is for clearing skies and a temperature in the 60s. The front which brought the first measureable rain in six months to the San Francisco Bay Area during the weekend moved eastward during the night, although it left a wet field behind in Oakland.

Bogus managers—Dick Williams of the A's and Earl Weaver of the Orioles—were disappointed with Monday's postponement, but neither saw it as giving either side an edge. "If it rains again today, will pitch the fourth game, couldn't be angry. I was just disappointed," said Weaver, "then according to Williams, leaving disappointed."

Secretariat Smashes Belmont Turf Mark

NEW YORK (UPI) — Secretariat is back to his old tricks again—smashing records.

The 3-year-old Meadow Stable wonder horse, a cinch for Horse of the Year honors after winning Thoroughbred racing's triple crown this year, added the Belmont Park mile and a half record to his already lengthy list Monday when he captured the $113,600 added Man O' War Stakes in 2:24 4/5.

Secretariat, who earlier this year became the first horse since Citation in 1948 to win the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes, made his debut on grass a sparkling one as he outdistanced turf specialist Tentam by five lengths. Big Spruce was third in the field of seven, another 2 1/2 lengths back.

Secretariat, upset in his last start when he finished second to Prove Out in the Woodward Stakes, moved out to an early lead, settled into a groove and then pulled away in the last quarter mile under a hand ride from regular jockey Ron Turcott. He carried 121 pounds, five less than Tentam, and returned $3.00, $2.40 and $2.20.

"He was just beautifully relaxed today," Turcott said. "I let him go on his own in the front stretch after the break and he went to the lead. When Tentam came to him on the backstretch, I just chirped on him and he pulled out. It was the same at the head of the stretch. When Tentam came up, Secretariat took off."

His winning time was nearly a full second better than the previous Belmont Park record of 2:25 2/5 set by Drumtop in 1971.

Secretariat's next start and possibly his last before retiring to stud could be the Jockey Club Gold Cup at Aqueduct on Oct. 27. There is a possibility he may run in the D.C. International at Laurel, Md., in November to end his racing career.

Stablemate Riva Ridge, also entered in the Man O' War, was scratched by trainer Lucien Laurin. Laurin said Riva Ridge will run on the dirt next Monday at Aqueduct.

The victory was the eighth in 11 outings this year for Secretariat and brought his earnings this year to $767,649. Overall, he has won $1,224,053.

Yacht Leader Falls Behind

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Lowell North of San Diego, seeking an unprecedented fourth star class yachting championship, lost a commanding lead Monday and placed second to Henry Rowan of Rancocas, N.J., in the first day of the 51st running of the event.

Observers said North had a sizable lead at next to the final mark, but slipped back when winds diminished from about eight to three knots.

Fifty-seven entrants from 14 countries were represented in the best five-of-six race event.

Others in the top 10 in order of finish were John McCausland, Cherry Hill, N.J.; former world champion Durwood Knowles, Nassau, Bahamas; Tom Blackaller, San Francisco; former world champion Dennis Conner, San Diego; Robbie Haines, Coronado, Calif., at 19; the youngest entrant; Trygve Liljestrand, Tiburon, Calif.; Larry Whipple, Seattle; and Barton Beek, Los Angeles.

Ellenville Hands Walkill First UCAL Loss

Tough Defense Rips Panthers

By STEVE KANE

ELLENVILLE — The list of undefeated teams in the Ulster County Athletic League is now down to one, thanks to Ellenville High School. Monday the Ellies knocked off Walkill, 13-3, with a convincing style that evened both squads off with 3-1 records and a share of second place.

The Panthers were beaten where it counts—down in the trenches. Ellenville came out with a brass-knuckled defense that held Walkill's vaunted rushing game to minus nine yards. That settled the issue. The Ellies got their points, but the Panthers got only a face-saving field goal from Brian Wicks in the game's closing seconds.

The opposing coaches, and everybody else, were unanimous in their appraisals: "The physical difference? We're quicker in the line," said Ellenville's Pete Meoli.

And Walkill's Jerry Trezza agreed. "They beat us in the line. And they beat us outside."

Three punts into the first period, Ellenville got on the board after taking over on its own 41 and marching 56 yards to score. Keith Trappell, who is emerging as one of the league's finest runners, almost broke it on the first play of the series when he swept right end for 17 yards, only stopping when he tripped over a fallen Panther. But that only stopped the Ellies temporarily.

On second down, quarterback Mike Hayden sent Steve Tannenbaum out of the backfield for a 15-yard pass, and Walkill got caught spearing for 15 more. Trappell blasted nine yards to the Panther five, and four plays later big Stan Foo plunged in from the one.

Charged with the task of preserving the lead, the Blue Devil defense did all that and more. Keying on Walkill's super halfback, Felix Feliciano, they stopped anything resembling a run and made life difficult for Walkill quarterback Tom Barryann.

All through the rest of the first half Walkill got zlich on the ground. Barryann managed to come up with a pair of first downs through the air, but when he tried to throw long the Ellenville secondary got in the way.

But the half ended with the teams only a touchdown apart. That was because the Ellies missed two chances — one when Tom Grable's field goal attempt went wide, and the other when Hayden, hit in the act of throwing, was intercepted by Ted Doskie, the Panther defensive captain.

Ellenville didn't suffer a lapse until after the second touchdown was on the board, and by that time it was too late for Walkill. Trappell, punting in the third quarter, buried the Panthers deep in their own territory. The Ellenville defense then forced Walkill into a punting situation.

With regular kicker Mark Walther out with an injury, his replacement was a little slow in getting it off. Angelo Capozzelli broke through to block it, Foo, charging in from his defensive end position, picked up the ball and carried it and several would-be tacklers eight yards for a 13-0 lead.

Berryann had no choice but to throw at that stage, and even though he did work effectively to Jeff Koonz the Panthers could get no closer than the four. That was with 14 seconds left, just before Wicks got Walkill on the score board.

Meoli was a little surprised with the way in which his team won. "We thought we'd have to throw, but our line did such a good job, Trappell just went." He wasn't surprised with the defense. "We keyed on Feliciano, of course," he said. "We feel nobody can beat us in the middle, so we were fired up to stop him outside."

Walkill, not playing up to par, knew it was beaten, but the Panthers were down, not out. "Listen," said Trezza, "when was the last time a Walkill team was 3-1? We know we lost today, but we'll be back."

Walkill's record is 1-1. Ellenville is 2-0. Walkill's record is 1-1. Ellenville is 2-0.

No-Foul-Out-Rule Adopted by ABA

NEW YORK (UPI) — The trustees of American Basketball Association Monday passed the revolutionary and controversial no-foul-out rule for regular season games and playoffs in 1973-74.

The rule will be in effect when the ABA starts its regular season Wednesday night.

The vote wasn't disclosed but it took a majority of the 10 owners to pass the new rule. The action was taken by a conference call involving the 10 owners.

The rule reads: "no player will be disqualified because of the number of personal fouls he may accumulate during a game and overtime periods. When a player commits his seventh or succeeding fouls, the offended team will retain possession of the ball after the offended player attempts any free throw or free throws which he is awarded."

The rule was put in effect on an experimental basis in the exhibition season.

Jim Chones of the Carolina Cougars got 12 and 10 fouls on consecutive nights last week for the most fouls charged to a single player in the exhibition season. No other player got more than seven fouls. About 50 players received six or more fouls in a game and were allowed to stay in. In the past, a player fouled out when he was charged with his sixth foul.

Some skeptics said the rule would increase fouling in the game. But an ABA study of the exhibition games showed that fouls were up less than one per team over last year's pre-season play.

Some of the details will be ironed out Tuesday. Among the highly technical details of the rule to be decided Tuesday are:

Whether free throws should be allowed or not allowed along with possession with a team in the bonus situation; or an offensive foul or a rebounding foul.

Mike Storen, the commissioner of the ABA, said, "I'm very happy that the trustees have seen fit to adopt this new rule. We feel that it is in keeping with past policies of the ABA which have been toward bettering the game of pro basketball. "We are the league that introduced the red, white and blue ball and the three-point field goal, and both have gained wide acceptance from all basketball fans throughout the country. We hope that this latest rule will also become an important addition to the game. "The designated hitter in baseball received a great deal of adverse publicity when it was first talked about and adopted. And now it has become a popular feature of the game in the American League."

Komives Put on Waivers

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—The National Basketball Association Buffalo Braves show their "new look" tonight—a look that apparently didn't include Howard "Butch" Komives, the veteran guard placed on waivers by the club Monday.

Komives, a nine-year pro, was the last man cut as the Braves got down to the 12-man NBA limit before tonight's opener against the Houston Rockets. Komives averaged 6.1 points a game for Buffalo during the 1972-73 season after coming to the Braves last winter in a trade with Detroit.

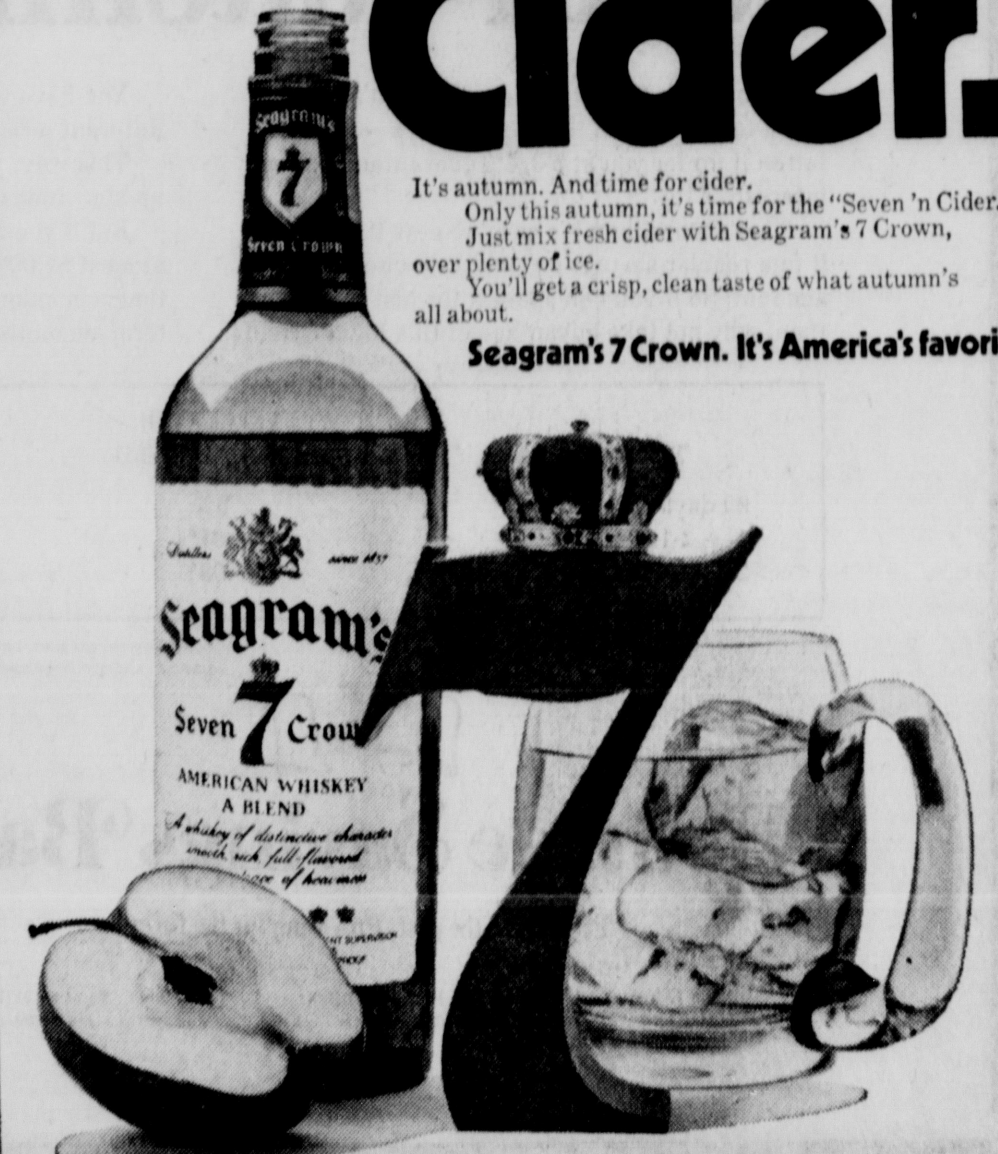

Komives, who led the nation in scoring during his senior year at Bowling Green University, was drafted by the New York Knicks in 1964. He has averaged a respectable 10.5 points a game during his career. Buffalo Coach Jack Ramsay, in an apparent decision to go with rookie guards Ernie DiGregorio and Ken Charles, kept Komives on the bench during most of the pre-season. Ramsay also has veterans Dave Wohl and Randy Smith available to play guard.

Donates His Prize

Nicklaus Takes 50th Tour Victory

By GENE CADDES

KINGS MILL, Ohio (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus, who went into the final round with a nine shot lead, shot a one over par 72 Monday and coasted to victory in the $125,000 Ohio-Kings Island Open Golf Tournament with a 72-hole score of 271. He then gave away the prize money.

Nicklaus, whose victory was the 50th of his career on the PGA tour, won by six shots over runnerup Lee Trevino, who had a final round of three under 68 for a 277 total.

Tom Weiskopf, who was paired with Nicklaus and Trevino in a dream final round matchup, finished tied for third with Andy North at 281 after shooting an even par 71. North had a two under 69 in the final round.

Another shot back was Tom Kite, who had a 68 Monday, followed by John Lister at 283 and Billy Zibbro, Tom Watson and Rod Curl at even par 284.

Nicklaus actually wrapped up the $25,000 first prize, which gave him the PGA money lead for the year, with his amazing nine under 62 Sunday.

He carried a nine-shot lead over Lister into the final round and shot a 35-37 on the 6,915-yard Jack Nicklaus Golf Center Course, of which he is a half-owner and also helped design.

Nicklaus, however, did not accept his prize money. Instead he turned it back to the sponsors with the stipulation that $5,000 of it go to the Boy Scouts and $20,000 be used to establish a scholarship fund at Ohio State University, Nicklaus' alma mater, in the name of his late father, Charles, who died in February, 1970.

"I felt the whole motivation for me was to bring golf to the people of southwestern Ohio and for me to profit from the tournament would violate that motivation," Nicklaus said.

Nicklaus said the scholarship would go to "a golf-minded boy from southwestern Ohio, but not necessarily a golfer."

Nicklaus, who had a 75 washed out when the first round was postponed by rain Thursday, has now won six tournament titles this year, including the PGA Championship. The first prize money boosted his 1973 earnings to $278,124, pushing him past former leader Bruce Crampton by more than $4,000. Crampton was not entered in the tournament here.

Nicklaus, who still held his nine stroke lead through the first 13 holes Monday, bogeyed the 14th, 15th and 11th, but Trevino, who made the turn in 34 and birdied the 13th and 16th, never got any closer than five shots.

Trevino, who had 68-69-68 the final three rounds after opening with a 72, picked up $14,250 for his second place finish, pushing him over the $200,000 mark in winnings for the third consecutive year.

"I feel just as happy as a winner," said Trevino. "The only thing I was thinking about was second place."

Nicklaus said he felt there was no way anybody would catch him when he chipped in from 30 feet for a birdie on the seventh hole and said he "apparently got tired of concentrating" which caused his three bogeys.

"It was funny," Nicklaus said, "after I chipped in on the seventh, some guy in the gallery said, 'you are the fourth guy in the last five groups to chip in from there.' And I thought I had hit a heck of a shot."

Charles Meachem, chairman of the board of Taft Broadcasting, said:

Rockaway Way Captures Feature at Roosevelt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pounding ahead at the half, Rockaway Way finished strong in front of 16,000 New York State harness racing fans Monday night at Roosevelt Raceway.

Johnny Chapman guided the winner to a 2:02 flat clocking in the featured $10,200 pace. C.V. Roadrunner was back a length followed by H.T. Aquila. Rockaway Way returned $9.00 for the win.

In the featured eight race at Vernon Downs, a $3,000 pace, Gypsy C sprinted home in 2:03 3-5 to return $17.60. Bill Andrews guided the winner to the lead in the backstretch and a neck margin over Silver King. Gail H. was the place horse.

Bob Perry was in the sulky as Willing Ray hammered out a two-length victory in the featured ninth at Saratoga. It was the 17th win in 20 starts for the 4-year-old pacer.

Gaucha followed by Steady Mike. Willing Ray returned $15.80 in the $1,500 purse. Jimmy D. BEAT Deep Run Frosty by a half-length to win the featured $5,000 preferred trot 7th race at Batavia Downs. Sweetshooter was third.

Driven by Nick Mouw, the winner covered the mile in 2:06 2-5 and paid $12.80.

In a non-betting feature, the opening trot of the Grand Circuit with an $18,000 purse, Star-lark Hanover took an early lead and held on to beat Berna Hanover by a neck. The win-gypsy C sprinted home in 2:03 3-5 to return $17.60. Bill Andrews guided the winner to the lead in the backstretch and a neck margin over Silver King. Gail H. was the place horse.

PINE BUSH — Pine Bush High School got rolling in the second quarter here Monday afternoon and just never let up as quarterback Tom Engels engineered the UCAL's most lopsided victory of the season, a 37-0 thrashing of Liberty.

Engels, though attempting only eight passes during the game, hit on five of them for three touchdowns and 123 yards. He also scored once himself on a keeper play from three yards out.

"We looked terrible in that first quarter," noted John Shaughnessy, the Pine Bush coach. "But Stan Gill had a run called back in the second period, and that seemed to fire us up. After that our offense did everything right."

It started with a 90-yard Bushman march which ended in Engels' 48-yard strike to Alvin Gunther. Pine Bush hardly left Liberty territory at all after that. The winners had three touchdowns by halftime as Engels came right back with a 16-yard completion to full-back Steve Pirog. Gunther got the third TD, going three yards shortly after the Bushmen had recovered a fumble on the Liberty 28.

Pine Bush kept the pressure on the sluggish Redskins right through the second half. Engels himself made it 25-0 in the third period, and after another Liberty turnover he found Marc Blanco open for 25 yards and another score.

Gill, who may have started the whole thing, finally got a little justice in the last period when he broke a trap play for 13 yards and the final score of the day.

Aside from the Pine Bush offense, which rolled up 301 total yards and scored the most points in the league to date, the winners' defense did a good job

28th Opener For the NBA

By ALEX SACHARE

Associated Press Sports Writer Can Bill Russell bring peace and harmony to the Seattle SuperSonics?

Is Elmore Smith the man to fill the massive shoes of Wilt Chamberlain?

Will the New York Knicks' Dave DeBusschere—or perhaps the Milwaukee Bucks' Oscar Robertson—get a National Basketball Association championship ring as a going-away present?

Can Gene Shue—or Doug Collins, or anyone—save the Philadelphia 76ers?

Those are some of the questions around the NBA, which opens its 28th season with five games tonight. Houston plays at Buffalo, Detroit meets the defending champion Knicks in New York, the relocated Capital Bullets are at Atlanta, Golden State opens at Cleveland and Los Angeles is at Chicago against the rugged Bulls.

Play in the rival American Basketball Association begins Wednesday.

In the most dramatic coaching change, Russell, who led the Boston Celtics to 11 championships in 13 seasons as a player and a player-coach, takes over as coach and general manager of the troubled Seattle SuperSonics.

Russell inherits a team which was a disappointing 26-56 last year, when the Sonics went through two coaches, Tom Nissalke, who was fired in midseason, and Bucky Buckwalter.

On the brighter side, he has a number of talented athletes—most notably Spencer Haywood, the All-Star forward whom Russell has shifted to center, and Jim McDaniels, who has been moved from center to forward.

One fixture the NBA will have to learn to do without is Chamberlain, the massive center who holds nearly all the league scoring records. Chamberlain decided late last month to leave the NBA after 14 seasons, accepting a lucrative offer from the Los Angeles Lakers.

for to become player-coach of the ABA San Diego Conquistadors.

Replacing Chamberlain at center for Los Angeles is Smith, a seven-footer in his third year of pro ball who was acquired from the Buffalo Braves in exchange for young forward Jim McMillian.

The Lakers will be pressed by Golden State, Seattle and Phoenix in the Pacific Division, which appears to be the NBA's most powerful grouping.

The defending champion Knicks will be without guard Earl Monroe for about two months, but he should be ready for the stretch run and the playoffs. DeBusschere, the Knicks' All-Star forward, will be spending his last year as a player, moving to the ABA New York Nets as general manager next year.

The Boston Celtics were the NBA's winningest team last year, but were ousted by the Knicks—who finished second in the Atlantic Division to Boston—in the playoffs. Center Dave Cowens, the league's most valuable player, leads an experienced unit which will seek to avenge that loss.

The Capital Bullets and Atlanta Hawks should battle for the Central Division title, while the Milwaukee Bucks will once again try to stave off a challenge from the Chicago Bulls in the Midwest.

Robertson, in his 14th NBA season and fourth at Milwaukee, has said this campaign will be his last.

At the other end of the spectrum are the 76ers, whose 9-73 record last year was the worst in league history. Coach Kevin Loughery deserted the ship to become coach of the ABA Nets, and Gene Shue was named to replace him.

Shue has two promising rookies, Collins of Illinois State and Lewis of Los Angeles State, for backcourt help. Elsewhere, he has problems.

The 90-day dollar-fattening diet

If you have $1,000 or more that you're not going to be using in the next 90 days — we can fatten it up for you at 5-3/4% guaranteed annual interest.

That's more than it's earning now if you have it in a regular savings account or a checking account. So if you can spare it for just that short time, why not take advantage of this higher yield?

You have the option to renew — or transfer to a different term plan — when your account matures. This way, you don't have to worry about tying up your funds for a long period of time.

But if you know right now that you won't need at least $1,000 of your savings for an even longer time, consider the variety of high-yielding Heritage term accounts available to you:

TERM	EFFECTIVE ANNUAL YIELD	GUARANTEED ANNUAL INTEREST
90 days — 1 year	6%	5-3/4%
1 — 2-1/2 years	6.81%	6-1/2%
2-1/2 — 4 years	7.08%	6-3/4%

Federal law permits premature withdrawal on term accounts provided rate of interest on amount withdrawn is reduced to the passbook rate (5-1/4%) and 90 days' interest is forfeited.

'Casablanca' In Rhinebeck; Koch to Speak

RHINEBECK
Howard Koch, screenwriter and director, will speak at Upstate Films Theater Oct. 10 about his film "Casablanca," to be shown.

The film stars Humphrey Bogart and Ingrid Bergman. Koch will speak about social films of the 1940s and the Hollywood blacklist, an aftereffect of Sen. Joseph McCarthy's anti-communist campaign and the House Un-American Activities Committee hearings in the 1950s, had far reaching effects on Hollywood and its 1950s products.

Koch, a Woodstock resident whose film "Mission to Moscow" was the subject of much controversy during HUAC hearings, has recently published a book detailing the making of "Casablanca." He has most recently directed the film "Badge 73".

The program will begin at 7:30 p.m. and also includes John Huston's World War II documentary "The Battle of San Pietro."

The program is made possible with support from the New York State Council on the Arts and the National Endowment for the Arts, and a $2.50 fee will be charged.

Rehab Group From Dutchess At CP Confab

POUGHKEEPSIE
Rehabilitation Programs, Inc. of Dutchess County is being at the International Cerebral Palsy Society Conference in New York City this week.

The program serves mentally retarded and multiple handicapped children and adults of Dutchess and nearby Ulster Counties.

Staff members from the cerebral palsy-medical rehabilitation clinic of the Poughkeepsie-based organization will include social workers and therapists. Vocational work training staff members will also be represented.

Eye Clinic Set

ACCORD
Parents of pre-school children in the Kerhonkson-Accord area will have the opportunity to have their children screened for amblyopia, or "lazy eyes," on Thursday, Oct. 11.

On that date, the Ulster County Health Department will sponsor a Screening Clinic at the Rochester Reformed Church, Route 209, Accord. Screening of the three and four year olds will be performed by trained volunteers.

The Transfer After Overcall

By Oswald and James Jacoby

in general there is no advantage in having the lead come up to the no-trump overcall. Nearly all the defensive strength will be in the opening bidder's hand. In fact, there are plenty of times when keeping the opening bidder on lead will be worth a trick.

Today's hand illustrates this. It doesn't matter what West leads against South's optimistic four-spade contract. South will have time to discard a diamond on one of dummy's clubs and will lose on trick each in all suits except trumps.

Give East the lead against four spades and he will open a diamond. Now if West just plays his nine-spot, West will be sure of two diamonds trick in addition to the heart and club ace.

Why do we call four spades by South an optimistic contract? Because it is! South really had to go all out to find that four-spade call, but whether the hand is played at game or part score it still should be played in spades and by South.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

LIFE AND DEATH: (Comment) This is a true story of teenage love. When I was 8 my mother died, and I took it very hard. Being the only girl, I took over a lot of responsibility. By the time I was 10 I was doing everything.

Each summer I spent at the lake where we have a cottage. Up the road from us was a boy named Guy. My father hated Guy. Every year I would count the days until summer so that I could be with Guy. By the time I was 12 and Guy 14, we knew we loved each other. My father knew I saw him, but he thought it was a crush and that I would get over him.

One winter weekend Guy was coming to see me at our home in town because it was my birthday. He was two blocks from my house when a man who had been drinking quite heavily struck him with his car and killed him.

Guy's parents showed their love most at this time. They comforted me greatly. They knew I loved him and he loved me, and they had been happy for us.

The thing that hurt me the most was that my father said "Good!" when he heard Guy was dead. He wouldn't even go to the funeral.

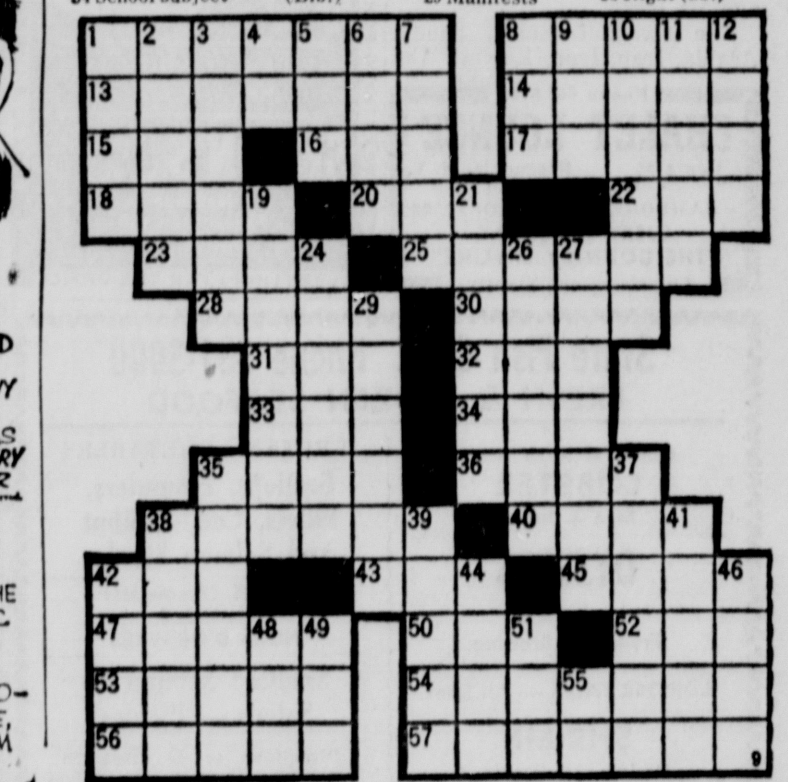

Something about parents is weird. They say they care but sometimes when you need them the most they're not there. I hope that all parents who read this will BE there when their kids need their help and love.

You may think I'd be bitter, but I'm not. I'm just sad and brokenhearted. The fact that one or two older people have misjudged you or mistreated you doesn't mean you have to hate the whole establishment. I don't.

I don't hate my father for being that way about Guy. I don't even hate the man who killed him. I just feel sorry for them because they can't see things the way they are.—Sad in Virginia.

(A) Thank you for writing. Almost anything I could say would be superfluous. But try to see that maybe your mother's death was a great blow to your father, too, and maybe he, being older, wasn't able to recover from it as you did. You will recover from this blow, too.

60,000 Line Streets For Columbus Parade

NEW YORK (AP) — Bands, 10,000 marchers, 43 bands and colorfully decorated floats will parade along Fifth Avenue under a brilliant autumn blue sky as an estimated 60,000 people turned out for the annual Columbus Day festivities.

Politicians and other dignitaries went through a series of wreath-laying rituals at the statue of Christopher Columbus just southwest of Manhattan's Central Park before the parade started Monday.

Tricia Nixon Cox, daughter of President Nixon, watched the parade from the steps of the statue of Columbus.

From out of a paper bag, Giulio Fiorentino pulled a small white flowerpot, ablaze with flowers reflecting the hues of autumn.

"I grow these flowers myself," Fiorentino said proudly in a voice unmistakably infected with the tones of his native land.

Heading away from Fifth Avenue, he said, "I would like to see the parade today, but I must work."

Using his code name, "Sedan Chair II," he operated under the direction of Jeb Stuart Magruder, deputy director of president Nixon's re-election campaign, he said.

A second witness, John "Fat Jack" Buckley, told investigators that a cab driver planted in the Muskie campaign gave him political documents which he photographed and gave to convicted Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt.

McMinoway told the committee staff he "walked in" to Humphrey headquarters in Philadelphia, announcing himself as a businessman with spare time to donate. He was put to work on mailing and telephone projects. McMinoway said he switched telephone cards so that some potential supporters were never called and others were called twice.

He said he switched mailing lists, so that campaign literature aimed at black voters went to labor groups and vice versa. He infiltrated the Muskie campaign in Milwaukee and the Humphrey and McGovern campaigns in California, he said.

At the Democratic convention in Miami Beach, he said, he spent three days as a security officer guarding the McGovern floor in the Doral Hotel and reported the comings and goings to the Nixon campaign.

The committee also may call Ken Rietz, who headed Young Voters for Nixon and allegedly hired Buckley.

Republicans were to call Democratic "dirty tricksters" this week, but sources said they may not, due to lack of substantial testimony. Because of this, the hearings this week may be cut back from three days to two.

The Justice Department said all 134 employees who might have knowledge of the investigation had signed affidavits denying they were the source of any information that appeared in the news media. But it said it was willing to permit senior officials to give depositions under oath.

"The only plausible explanation of the news leaks that have plagued this investigation, as well as many other matters of similar news worthiness in modern times, is that they have come from a wide variety of sources," the department said.

As to the reporters, the department said, "We have supported the right of the courts to the testimony of newsmen when its relevance and importance were plain. We have never supported incursions into this sensitive area for the mere purpose of conducting fishing expeditions, and it is plain that that is all that is involved here."

On Agnew's Subpoenas

Separate Leaks Responses

BALTIMORE, MD. (UPI) — The Justice Department says it is willing to answer questions under oath from Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's lawyers about news leaks. But it supports several reporters who say they are not willing to do the same.

Lawyers for the department and the reporters filed separate responses Monday to Agnew's subpoenas attempting to force them to make sworn depositions about what the vice president contends is a "malicious campaign" of news leaks against him.

Meanwhile, the special federal grand jury here begins its third week of receiving evidence about the allegations that Agnew received kickbacks from contractors and architects while he was Baltimore county executive and Maryland governor.

The reporters asked U.S. District Court in Baltimore to delay from Thursday until Oct. 18 the date on which they must appear with their stories and notes. If a delay is obtained, they are expected to move by Monday to quash the subpoenas, probably on ground of alleged violation of the 1st Amendment.

The Justice Department handed a 17-page memorandum, signed by Solicitor General Robert H. Bork, to U.S. District Court Judge Walter E. Hoffman in the Washington area Monday. Hoffman, of Norfolk, Va., was assigned to the case when all nine federal judges from Maryland disqualified themselves.

The department said all 134 employees who might have knowledge of the investigation had signed affidavits denying they were the source of any information that appeared in the news media. But it said it was willing to permit senior officials to give depositions under oath.

Watergaters Hear 'Spies'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Michael McMinoway, otherwise known as "Sedan Chair II," told Senate investigators he infiltrated the 1972 presidential campaigns of three Democratic senators for the purposes of spying and political sabotage.

McMinoway, called to testify in public session before the Senate Watergate committee later today, said in a preliminary interview with the committee staff that he spied on Sens. George S. McGovern, Edmund S. Muskie and Hubert H. Humphrey.

Using his code name, "Sedan Chair II," he operated under the direction of Jeb Stuart Magruder, deputy director of president Nixon's re-election campaign, he said.

A second witness, John "Fat Jack" Buckley, told investigators that a cab driver planted in the Muskie campaign gave him political documents which he photographed and gave to convicted Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt.

Oil Nations Meet On Price Demand

VIENNA (UP) — Six of the biggest oil producing countries in the world opened the second stage today of a campaign to force an immediate 66 per cent increase in prices paid by Western oil companies.

Oil sources said the demand could result in the biggest leap in crude oil prices in two years, a move almost certain to affect the American consumer.

The sources said the price hike demand was presented Monday to 13 Western companies by six states on the Persian Gulf, members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC).

The second stage of the negotiations was scheduled to begin today.

Negotiations in OPEC's Vienna headquarters took place against a background of heavy fighting in the Middle East and Arab manifestos demanding that oil serve as a weapon against Israel.

The six gulf states, Saudi Arabia, Iran, Iraq, Kuwait, Abu

Dhabi and Qatar, demanded that crude oil prices rise from $3 a barrel to $5 and that machinery be established to insure that in the future the prices keep step with inflation, the sources said.

Abderrahman Khene, OPEC secretary general, said the opening talks were held in a "frank and friendly atmosphere" and did not touch the Middle East war.

David Drummond, spokesman for the Western oil companies, said the talks have not progressed beyond "preliminary discussions."
